One of those personally conducted juvenile excursions from the public schools passing the office just as Jack Lloyd came in, somehow or other prompted him to suggest that I throw all of my weight and size into the procession. Jack said I could qualify. I thought so too, when a couple of the lads gave me the high sign. But I still lacked the official invitation from the school teacher, and darn it, I didn't have a big red apple for entrance money.

Those safety razors are all right if you hold the blade in the right position. At least that is my experience—or inexperience.

Two candidates for a county office are rehearsing, "When My Dream Boat Comes Home."

The Journal's cooking school started today at the Ebell club, and will continue tomorrow and Friday of this week. Hours 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Better go. What to cook and how to cook it is an interesting study, and I understand becoming increasingly so, even in the face of a surplus, which also makes it an economic as well as a culinary proposition. And then there is more to a cooking school than just food. Some cooks can take the best food and spoil it. The utensils, the materials, the time and many other elements enter into the preparation of a good meal. Learning how is also important, if you wish to improve the temperament of the fellow who sits across the table from you and occasionally growls about "the way his mother used to do it."

I just inquired about the price of turkeys. I don't expect to have one, but I was interested to know what the other fellow was going to have to pay for his.

And then there is the service station operator who conceives the plan of electric alarms so that when a customer drives his car over the signal it will ring the bell, plus an auxiliary service that will shock the attendant into action. If the installation is what the operator plans, it will get every employee on his feet instantly—maybe sooner.

Believe it or not, I have lately heard two clean stories, both of them political.

Thanks to the many kind friends who by messenger and personal expression thought I should live a few years longer. They were the birthday well-wishers.

George King asks me what was the form of entertainment 50 years ago, because he wasn't here, and I don't see why he should believe me. Half a century ago so far as my own personal experiences go there wasn't any entertainment for me. I was setting type out of the case, 10 hours a day, and a little over a dozen in to boot. But those who had time to play took hay rides in the summer and sleigh rides in the winter. The church was the social center. It was ice cream during hot weather, and oyster suppers during cold weather. Well, wait a minute. What does King want to know for anyway?

By detour I get the report that "Stormy" Gordon is a bad bad-minton player. He wants to play the game with a cane instead of a racquet. At least he used one after the game.

The first half of taxes comes due Dec. 5th, and it doesn't make much difference to a lot of people who won't be able to pay them.

And then there is the successful candidate for office, who now has a waiting list in front of his office. Ha, the glory that was once Rome's!

The diplomatic shuffle is on. Wilson comes home from Germany and Kennedy from England, and all on account of a certain racial (Continued on Page 3, Col. 6)

CIO to Renew Big Drive

PITTSBURGH. (AP)—The CIO convention quickly completed today adoption of a constitution, establishing the union as the Congress of Industrial Organization and giving broad powers to the leadership, after John L. Lewis warned against attempts to delay acceptance.

The constitution provided a revenue for the new labor group that, based upon its claimed membership of 3,664,812 could amount to more than $2,000,000 annually to push forward a new organizing drive which leaders told the convention was the "paramount" question here.

LEADS VOTED

The motion to adopt the 10 articles as a whole passed unanimously. Of two sections, then they were considered separately, there were a few "no" votes.

These two articles gave the executive board the power to name the date and site for conventions and assessed small industrial unions a per capita tax of 50 cents.

As another step toward perfecting a permanent labor organization, the convention adopted a resolution instructing the new executive council to create a system of union labels to distinguish goods produced in plants where the workers have been organized by CIO unions.

COMMUNISTS BUSY

WASHINGTON. (AP)—John T. Pace of Detroit, who said he was a Communist party member from 1921 to 1934, told house investigators today "it seems to me the Communists have about got control" of the CIO convention at Pittsburgh.

A witness before the committee investigating un-American activities, race said he was willing to predict the Communists would "split up" the United Automobile Workers' union, a CIO affiliate, because of every struggle Communists want to build up the party in preparation for an eventual revolution.

Norwegian Queen Undergoes Knife

LONDON. (AP)—Queen Maud of Norway underwent an abdominal operation here today while her husband, King Haakon VII, was on his way to her side.

A physician's bulletin said, "Although her majesty has come through the operation well, the next few days cannot be without some anxiety." She is 68 years old.

PAY CUTS RESTORED

TELEDO, Ohio. (AP)—Salaried employees of the Libby-Owens-Ford Glass company, who accepted salary reductions during 1938, will have the cuts restored Dec. 1, John D. Biggers, president, announced yesterday.

QUEEN MAUD OF NORWAY, with King Haakon VII, underwent an abdominal operation here today.

Jews Go Into Hiding, Fear New Outbreak of Germans

U. S. Formally Protests to Nazi Leaders

BERLIN. (AP)—Jews sought seclusion against fresh outbreaks of German anti-semitic feeling today while the United States embassy sent a formal note to the foreign office protesting the destruction of American Jews' property during the attacks of last week.

No details were given in the note but the United States reserved the right to take further action in behalf of any interests harmed.

The number of Jews under arrest throughout Germany was conservatively estimated today at 40,000, including some of the best known rabbis and most of the leaders of important Jewish organizations.

The majority of those held were understood to have been taken to three main concentration camps: those in north Germany to Oranienburg - Sachsenhausen, near Berlin; those in central Germany to Buchwald, near Weimer; those in the south to Dachau, near Munich.

Youths in their teens, taken from Jewish schools training them for handicrafts or farm work in Palestine, were believed to have been shipped in trucks to work on the new fortifications along Germany's western borders.

An editorial of an important Nazi newspaper angrily assailed what it called the "concessions of the American government to American Jewry."

The editorial was directed specifically against the United States secretary of the interior, Harold I. Ickes, and the summons to Ambassador Hugh R. Wilson to return to the United States.

It was published in the national Zeitung of Essen, the newspaper of Field Marshal Goering who is (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Eager Crowd Attends Journal Cooks' School

A pleased, chuckling, and instructed crowd of eager listeners went home from the opening session of the Santa Ana Journal's all-electric cooking school at the Ebell clubhouse this morning, carrying with them dozens of worthwhile prizes, and resolving to bring neighbors and friends with them tomorrow and Friday for the last two classes to be conducted by Dr. James Cantrell.

Dozens of other gifts will be apportioned at the close of the Thursday and Friday sessions, climaxing by the award of a $150 all-electric range from the Southern California Edison company.

Entirely unique in the field of cooking school instructors who have appeared before Santa Ana audiences in the past, Dr. Cantrell delighted the audience with his shrewd comments and obvious mastery of the art of fine cooking, which he will reveal in even greater detail tomorrow and Friday.

Before their eager eyes he baked and iced a towering four-layer cake which later was awarded to Leola Francis, 510 Wellington street, connected several other delectable cakes, breads, and pies and demonstrated the ease and dexterity of the various labor-saving electric kitchen appliances with regard to meat and fowl cookery, eggs, vegetables and desserts.

Accompanying the revelation of interesting recipes on the part of Dr. Cantrell, who is well known as a lecturer, author, cook and beauty authority, were personal (Continued on Page 3, Col. 3)

HORSE'S KICK PROVES FATAL

Unconscious for 10 days after being kicked by a horse, William C. Young, 79, of Garden Grove, died at his home today.

Young was kicked in the head Nov. 6 when he attempted to lead the horse from the barn into the barnyard during a windstorm. Coroner Earl Abbey reported Young fell in the path of the animal, and that the horse jumped over him, kicking the prostrate man in the head.

He was found by Thomas Plant of Garden Grove with whom he had been living.

Funeral services are pending at Planagan and Roselot Funeral chapel in Fullerton.

FORD EXECUTIVE DIES

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—George Johnston, jr., 48, for seven years the superintendent of the Ford Motor Co. assembly plant here, died today.

He died of a heart ailment, which he had contracted while working at the Ford plant.

Mr. Johnston was born in Michigan and came to California in 1910. He was married and had two children.

He was a member of the Ford Motor Co. board of directors.

Colony Demands Rejected

LONDON. (AP)—Government leaders of Great Britain, France and the Union of South Africa—the holders of Germany's war-lost African colonies—served separate notice today they had no intention of returning territories under their administration to the Reich.

Statements of colonial and dominions secretary Macdonald, Premier Edouard Daladier of France and General Jan Christiaan Smuts of the Union of South Africa thus served to emphasize the possibility that any plan for colonial appeasement of Germany might have to be based on:

NO TRANSFER

1. The acquisition of African territory from Portugal and Belgium for a transfer to replace Germany's own former colonies.

2. The formation of an international colonial pool with Germany as a member to give the Reich free access to former possessions.

Macdonald said in the house of commons his government authorized the announcement it "did not contemplate the transfer of any territory under British administration."

The authorization he said was telegraphed to the governor of Tanganyika territory in East Africa, held by Britain under a league of nations mandate.

RISKY TO FIGHT

General Smuts, South African world war commander, asserted his country would fight if necessary to retain Southwest Africa.

Premier Daladier declared France would cede no colonies and would protect French colonial integrity. In a press statement he said cession of colonial territory never had been considered.

In response to charges in the house of commons that Nazi subsidization of German planters in Tanganyika had created a "totalitarian state within another state," Macdonald said he was asking the colony's governor to "furnish me with the facts."

JAPS ATTACK AMERICAN

HANKOW. (AP)—Paul Josselyn, United States consul general in Hankow, made a second protest to the Japanese today against an incident in which Japanese soldiers were alleged to have thrown acid at Dr. Logan H. Rootes, American missionary physician.

Josselyn yesterday demanded investigation of the incident, which occurred at Wuchang Nov. 13, but the Japanese consul general did not reply.

WATCH OUT FOR RED PIG

If you happen to find an eight-week-old red pig, it won't make a very satisfactory Sunday dinner.

The sheriff's office issued this warning today, following disappearance of the young porker from the Clingan Poultry house on West Seventeenth street.

Reason the pig won't be good eating: it has just been inoculated for cholera and will poison the eater.

Deputy Sheriff Steve Duhart was attempting to trace the pig today. It disappeared yesterday afternoon, its owner said, and may have been stolen.

$10,000 GEM THEFT

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Theft of $10,000 worth of jewelry, including a three-stone diamond ring valued at $2500, from an apartment in an exclusive Wilshire boulevard hotel was reported to police today by Mrs. Elizabeth Winship.

The jewelry was stolen from a rooming house on Wilshire boulevard, Mrs. Winship said.

On arrival, Dr. John Cottrell sewed the ear back on the woman's head—almost four hours after it had been severed.

The injured woman was riding in an automobile driven by Raymond Francis McSteven, 44, of Long Beach. His car was involved in a collision with a car driven by Jack Krisher, 22, 1459 Cypress street.

West Wins Close Race For Bench

FRANKLIN G. WEST Wins By Narrow Margin

Morrison Extends Congratulations To Winner

BULLETIN

Franklin G. West's victory in the race for judge of the superior court, department two, was assured at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon when West's lead was 119 votes. There were only 115 ballots remaining to be counted; thus, even if all the remaining ballots were for Justice of the Peace Kenneth Morrison, West still would be the winner.

Franklin G. West will be Orange county's newest superior court judge.

Next Jan. 3 the 42-year-old Santa Ana attorney will take over department two of the same court where his father, the late Judge Z. B. West, served on the bench for 24 years with one of the outstanding records in the history of California jurisprudence.

MORRISON CONCEDES

At noon today, with but 188 absentee votes left to be counted, West had a lead of 131 votes over Justice of the Peace Kenneth Morrison, making West's victory certain in a race which for a time was the closest contest in history of county-wide elections.

Morrison conceded the election at noon and tendered his congratulations to his opponent, who staged a spectacular uphill climb since the primary election in which Morrison led a three-man field.

Morrison said he was not thinking of asking a recount of ballots.

"I want to express my deep appreciation of the support so many voters gave me," said the loser, "and to offer my hearty congratulations to the winner. I am sure he will make a fine judge."

West, considering still the mathematical possibility of an upset in the last few votes, said he preferred to make no statement until the election was definitely decided.

West will be declared the official winner at 4:30 p. m., when county supervisors canvass the absentee vote and declare the results official. Then County Clerk B. J. Smith will issue a certificate of election and, barring the possibility of a contest by Morrison, the race will be over.

MORRISON PICKS UP

Morrison kept a slight lead in absentee voting as the count went on. West had a 157-vote lead in the official canvass of regular voting, being ahead 23,890 to 23,733.

Morrison had picked up a 26-vote majority of the absentee ballots, however, cutting West's lead to 131, with 188 of the absentee votes still to be counted.

Standings at noon, with 188 ballots uncanceled: West, 24,127; Morrison, 23,996.

L.A. WEARER OF SLACKS FIGHTS JAIL SENTENCE

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—School-teacher Helen Hulick, having satisfied herself that a municipal court's dignity is offended by the wearing of slacks, waited today to find out what the superior court thinks about it.

Miss Hulick was wearing her slacks again today, after an hour or so spent in jail and blue denim yesterday when Municipal Judge Arthur Guerin sentenced her to five days for contempt after warnings not to—attired in what he called "pants."

She won her release on a writ of habeas corpus signed by Superior Judge Clarence Kincaid, who set a hearing Thursday on the content of the proceedings in the lower court.

Miss Hulick's attorney, William Katz, said she would appear in slacks "just to be consistent."

Court attaches recalled, in connection with superior court view of the subject, that a year ago last August Ann Siegel appeared attired in white silk pajamas to ask a divorce from Bert Siegel, and that Judge Thurmond Clarke commented:

"In my father's time such attire might not have been appropriate for court wear, but since pajamas are now worn so frequently on the street, they may be accepted as suitable for wear in court."

Judge Guerin, sentencing the kindergarten instructor, said he considered that "your appearance here in mannish attire is contemptuous."

Katz, in defense argued: "She is a young woman of ideals. If she wore dresses she would have to wear silk stockings. To her, a pair of silk stockings mean a dead Chinaman."

Legion Head Asks Trial for Bridges

INDIANAPOLIS. (AP)—Stephen F. Chadwick of Seattle, Wash., national commander of the American Legion, demanded of Secretary of Labor Perkins today that her department proceed at once with trial of Harry Bridges, west coast director of the Committee on Industrial Organization, the charge he is an "undesirable alien" and should be deported.

Mrs. Barnett Is Not Indicted

Composer Marries Ex-Follies Girl

BEVERLY HILLS. (AP)—Jimmy Monaco, composer of "I've Got A Pocketful of Dreams," had more than that today—a wife.

The 48-year-old tunesmith was married last night at his home to Virginia Case, former Ziegfeld follies girl.

Trade Agreement With United Kingdom to Be Signed Tomorrow

TARIFF CUTS SEEN AS AID TO U. S. TRADE

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The state department announced today the trade agreements with Great Britain and Canada would be signed at the White House tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Secretary of State Hull will sign for the United States. Canadian Prime Minister Mackenzie King will sign for Canada. The trade agreement with the United Kingdom was completed after six months of negotiation between a special delegation sent here by Great Britain and experts of the state and commerce departments. The British agreement brings the total number of trade agreements concluded to 19. The Canadian agreement is an enlargement of the existing Canadian agreement which expires Dec. 31. Details of both agreements, including the hundreds of items on which tariff concessions have been made, will be announced for publication Friday morning. The complete release numbers hundreds of pages, since the British agreement is the most important yet completed. It has been regarded as the apex of Secretary Hull's cherished program to stimulate world trade. Great Britain is the United States' best customer, having taken more than half a billion dollars in American exports in 1937. The agreement with Great Britain, the state department said, includes also Northern Ireland and the world scattered British colonial empire, including her possessions in Latin America. The United Kingdom agreement will be accompanied by a note from Great Britain expressing that country's willingness to discuss with the United States any tariff reductions which might follow on other products exported by the United States. The discussion will take place after Britain is released from some of the obligations she owes to the dominions because of the Ottawa preferential agreements.

Stanford Women Withdraw Protest Against High School Girl as Band's Majorette

PALO ALTO, (AP)—Maxine Turner, San Leandro high school student who hopes to be a Stanford University co-ed next year, will be the 100-piece Stanford band's high kicking drum majorette at the Stanford-University of California big game Saturday after all. The Stanford women's conference which had objected to Maxine's continuing as drum major, her role at other games this year, as conduct "unbecoming a Stanford woman," withdrew objections last night at a student executive committee meeting. The Stanford women further announced they would send apologies to Maxine for precipitating a campus row over her method of leading the band, which had threatened to strike if bare-legged Maxine were not permitted to continue her high kicking and hand springs in rhythm with the music.

GRAND JURORS PROBE COUNTY AFFAIRS NOW

Its two special investigations—of complaints against the juvenile court and detention home and of the "Fools Rush In" case—completed, the county grand jury settled down today for its annual routine investigation of county and district affairs. The pamphlet case, according to courthouse reports, will not be reviewed by the jury unless some special situation arises later in the season. Beginning Monday at 2 p. m., the jury will reserve each Monday afternoon for hearing of complaints or other matters from citizens, Secretary A. R. Benson of Orange said. The accounting firm of Crenshaw, Diehl and Edwards again has received the contract for the annual audit of county finances. Committees named by Foreman William Schumacher of Anaheim are: Roads and road department—Ralph McFadden and Clarence Brown. Hospital and health department—Fred Backs, Dr. W. E. TESTIMONY IN CALHOUN CASE STARTS TODAY

First evidence in the murder trial of Charley Calhoun, 28-year-old ex-convict from Oklahoma, was being introduced in Superior Court today before a jury of twelve men and seven women, with two other women sitting as alternate jurors. Two days of questioning of prospective jurors ended at 3:45 p. m. yesterday when both Asst. Atty. Preston Turner and Defense Counsel N. D. Meyer accepted the jury. Turner had exercised four of his peremptory challenges and Meyer had used nine. Preliminary testimony today was given by Deputy Sheriff Tom Murphree and Harvey Gulick, who answered the call to Midway City last June 26 after a blast from a shotgun in Calhoun's hands had fatally injured Clyde Dillinger, 30, Calhoun's father-in-law and cousin of the late gangster, John Dillinger. Mrs. Cora Dillinger, widow of the victim and mother of the man charged with his murder, was on the stand when Judge Allen declared a recess for lunch, reviewing her testimony at corner's inquest and preliminary hearing in which she said she saw her husband slump to the ground in the back yard of a Midway City home and that she ran out of the door and cried to her son, "don't shoot him again." Judge Allen ordered two alternate jurors drawn, since the trial apparently will be long and some of the regular jurors may become ill. Calhoun has pleaded not guilty—he will plead justification for the shooting because of Dillinger's alleged misconduct with Mrs. Calhoun and Calhoun's mother—and not guilty by reason of insanity. Aliens have held that he is sane at present, but Meyer will attempt to show temporary insanity at the time of the shooting. Members of the jury are Ted Masterson, William Law, R. H. Lee, C. R. Cook, Martha Barman, William Westcott, Estelle W. Smith, Jessie Heim, Julia A. Cusick, Kathleen Dunston, Florence Ferrel and Hessa G. Neil. Alternates are Marjorie Cuden and Evelyn E. Sutherland. Mrs. Ray was found dead in the garage of her Berkeley home yesterday afternoon by her husband, Lieut. Clarence C. Ray, instructor in the naval R. O. T. C. at the University of California. She was found in the car, with the motor running and a rubber tube from a vacuum cleaner carrying carbon monoxide gas from the exhaust pipe, it was reported. Besides her mother in Santa Ana, Mrs. Ray is survived by three brothers in Long Beach and other relatives.

Jews Hide in Germany

(Continued From Page 1) second only to Chancellor Hitler in the Nazi regime. All government offices and business houses were closed and Jews were keeping out of sight until after the funeral of the Paris embassy secretary, Ernst Vom Rath, on Thursday. His assassination by a Jewish youth resulted in the anti-Jewish attack. There is fear the funeral on Thursday may stir even more violent feeling among Nazis who consider Vom Rath a martyr, and in increasing despair the Jews have adopted secret codes to communication while they kept as much as possible in seclusion. (Vom Rath's body is to reach Dusseldorf today. Chancellor Hitler is to meet the funeral train.) Jewish newspapers are forbidden, so thousands do not know what is happening to their people through the country. They hear of the misfortune of friends only by round-about ways. They do not use telephones, unless they have agreed with each other on code phrases.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The White House said today President Roosevelt's condemnation of measures taken against German minorities applied to Catholic elements as well as Jewish.

Stephen Early, press secretary, told reporters the morning newspaper, in referring to the President's formal statement yesterday, denouncing the Nazi attacks, had "overplayed" the Jewish angle and neglected to point out that Catholics also were involved.

FAIRBAIRN HAS 9-VOTE LEAD

David Fairbairn of Olive, now a deputy sheriff, clung to a nine-vote lead today in the second of two extremely close races for public office. Fairbairn had lost part of his regular-vote lead for the office of justice of the peace, Orange township, and was heading Incumbent Cal Lester by nine votes, 2737-2728, at noon today. Perhaps two dozen more votes from Orange township were to be tallied yet in the absentee list, giving Lester an outside chance to pull through and regain his office. Of 38 Orange township absentee ballots tallied by noon, Lester had 23 and Fairbairn 15. Fairbairn led in the regular voting by a margin of 11, 2722-2705.

Johnson was the brother of Edgar Johnson, former owner of the Fullerton News-Tribune. Funeral arrangements will be completed by Smith and Tuthill and announced later.

BAPTISTS TO MEET 2 DAYS

Forty-sixth annual meeting of the Santa Ana Valley Baptist association is scheduled to open tomorrow and continue through Friday, in the First Baptist church of Downey, with about 15 churches represented in all departments, according to the Rev. Harry E. Owings, pastor of the local church. Miss Viola Hill, who at one time made her home in Santa Ana, will speak on the "Women in China," where she is active in the missionary field. The Rev. Owings will also be a guest speaker on tomorrow's program, which opens at 9:30 a. m. and concludes with a men's banquet at 6:15 p. m. Scheduled for Friday's program will be outstanding workers of the Baptist church, who will discuss missionary advancement in all fields, including the United States. The Young People's association is to have charge of the evening services, beginning at 7:30.

'Smoothpusses' Wear Badges in San Bernardino

SAN BERNARDINO, (AP)—Beards and covered wagons took precedence today over razors and streamlined automobiles as San Bernardino prepared for the opening tomorrow of its four-day "covered wagon days" celebration. Beards are compulsory for the males, the only alternative being a large yellow badge with the words "smoothpuss" and payment of a fine. A "smoothpuss patrol" with its "jail" on a wagon travels the streets and arrests the beardless.

75 ACRES OF GRASS BURN

Approximately 75 acres of grass land and brush were burned on the hills near Peters canyon, southeast of El Modena Monday night. Discovered at 3:30 p. m., nearly 40 men of the state forestry crews fought the blaze, bringing it under control at 7 p. m. Joe Sherman, state forest ranger, was in charge of fire fighting. Three trucks from the Orange station answered the call, one from Trabuco, and the Yorba Linda crew assisted. Little damage was done to the Irvine ranch property, except to the graze land. No buildings or crops were in the path of the fire, it was reported.

QUAKE ROCKS JAPAN TOKYO. (AP)—An earthquake of moderate intensity shook eastern and central Japan tonight. Early reports told of no damage.

ARSON TRIAL OPENS; JURY BEING PICKED

A jury to try Mrs. Margaret M. Davis, 50-year-old beauty operator accused of burning her beauty shop to collect insurance, was being selected today in Superior Judge H. G. Ames' court. Mrs. Davis is charged with arson in the burning of her South Main street beauty parlor and residence last June 28. Her arrest followed several weeks of investigation by Santa Ana fire department officials, who claim Mrs. Davis purposely set the fire with the idea of collecting insurance on her equipment. The building was owned by Frank Ey. Deputy Dist. Atty. Robert Gardner was prosecuting, with Lec Fris of Anaheim and Loren Smith of Santa Ana representing the matronly, gray-haired defendant. Firemen testified at Mrs. Davis preliminary hearing that they found several separate fires in the building when they arrived, one of them in a closet which smelled strongly of kerosene. The jury was expected to be complete this afternoon.

Great Britain Finally Recognizes Italian Conquest of Ethiopia

ONLY U.S. AND RUSSIA HOLD BACK ON MOVE

Soloist At Concert Here

Soloist on tomorrow evening's federal symphony orchestra concert to be held in the high school auditorium at 8:15 will be Olive Eleanor Switzer, 16-year-old Santa Ana pianist, pictured above. She was secured by Leon Eckles, director of the orchestra. Miss Switzer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Switzer of this city, and will play Cesar Franck's "Symphonie Variations."

ROME, (AP)—Italy emerged as the final victor today in the economic war England led against her during the Ethiopian campaign in 1935.

Britain formally recognized Italy as sovereign over Ethiopia when the Earl of Perth, British ambassador, presented to Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano new credentials accrediting him to King Vittorio Emanuele as King of Italy and Emperor of Ethiopia.

This was part of the process of bringing into effect the Anglo-Italian accord signed at Rome April 16 for composition of the differences of the two powers in the Mediterranean, Africa, the Near East and Spain.

Soviet Russia and the United States are the only big powers who have not yet recognized the Ethiopian conquest. The United States did not participate in the economic boycott. Russia, as a Communist government, is not likely to give formal recognition to the Fascist victory.

Italy agreed to:

1. Withdraw all fighters and war materials from Spain at or before the end of the civil war.
2. Reassure Britain she had no territorial, political or "privileged economic" aims in Spain.
3. Withdraw troops from Libya, Italian North Africa, at the rate of at least 1000 a week until a peace-time strength of possibly 30,000 was reached.
4. Adhere to the 1936 London naval treaty among Great Britain, the United States and France.
5. Reaffirm guarantees regarding Lake Tana, Ethiopian source of the Blue Nile.
6. Abandon all claims to influence in Arabian territories bordering the Red Sea and across from Eritrea and Italian Somaliland.
7. Reaffirm her June, 1936, assurance to the League of Nations that natives of East Africa would not be used for military purposes.
8. Promise British nationals religious freedom in East Africa and let British missionaries continue their work there.
9. Extend full British trading facilities to Ethiopia.

Britain promised to:

1. Work through the League of Nations toward recognition of Italy's conquest of Ethiopia.
2. Grant Italy certain rights in the British Aden Protectorate.
3. Prevent raids into Ethiopia from neighboring territory.

They agreed jointly to:

1. Reaffirm their Suez Canal convention of 1883 which guarantees free use of the Suez Canal at all times for all powers.
2. Use no propaganda against each other.
3. Reaffirm the gentlemen's agreement of January, 1937, and the Mediterranean status quo which that accord involved.
4. Respect the integrity of Saudi Arabia and Yemen.
5. Exchange information on prospective major movements of armed forces in the Mediterranean, Red Sea, Gulf of Aden, the Sudan and other regions.
6. Notify each other in advance of any new naval or air bases in the eastern Mediterranean, the Red Sea and approaches to the Red Sea.

WEST CINCHES TIGHT CONTEST FOR BENCH

Victorious in his fourth hairbreadth escape from defeat. In regular balloting in the general election he was behind for a time, but finally nosed out incumbent James L. Allen for second place in the race. Absentee votes, where West trailed for a time, again made him certain of a place on the November ballot.

NATIVE OF COUNTY

West trailed in first returns in the general election, with Morrison getting a slight majority in Santa Ana—but the attorney again came through in the home stretch to hold the edge in regular voting. And although he had dropped some of his lead in the absentee ballots today, he had not lost so many that there was any danger of defeat.

The new judge is a native of Orange county and a graduate of local schools and Stanford university, holding the six-year law degree of Juris Doctor. He has practiced law since 1923, and is active in the American Legion—he is past commander of Santa Ana post—and in other civic organizations.

The superior judgeship is his first elective office. He contended for the same post six years ago, but was defeated. This year the tables were turned, and West edged out Judge Allen in the primaries to face Justice Morrison in the general election.

Jackson Seen as Attorney General

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Robert H. Jackson, 46-year-old solicitor general, appeared to many capital politicians today to be the likely successor to Attorney General Cummings.

Cummings, 68, will return to private law practice in January, marking the third cabinet change since President Roosevelt took office in 1933.

I'm not so much interested in this discussion about water as I am about what goes with it.

If it's a good thing, pass it long, and if misery loves company, the same rule applies. At least, that is what the fellow thought who, during the windstorm, swept the leaves out into the street so the breeze would carry on the misery to the neighbor in the path of the storm. I haven't heard how the neighbor feels about it.

By the way, what became of that anti-mud campaign started in 1936 and forgotten in 1938?

This is the day when the service clubs consolidate to pay honor to the football players of the local high schools who have so far escaped the season with at least as much as they started with. I like football, but I wouldn't care to play the game. I like something more attuned to my sympathetic touch, if you understand my system. So far I have emerged without any broken limbs.

And then there is the rumor that the American Legion hi-jinks for 1938 has been postponed.

Where is the joy in life becoming so prominent that you have to have a guard thrown around you for fear of being bumped off? If that sort of prominence generates any pleasure, give me the inconspicuous life. LOS ALAMITOS UTILITY PLANS MEET DELAY

A mixup in plans for the proposed Los Alamitos lighting district today set the schedule back slightly, as county supervisors discovered that the engineer they had named to make the survey hadn't heard about it.

County Clerk B. J. Smith said he had notified W. C. Poe, the engineer, that he had been appointed to make the customary survey of the proposed district.

Poe said Smith's mailed copy of the resolution had never reached him, so Smith delivered another copy to W. E. Crofoot, president of the Los Alamitos chamber of commerce, who in turn will pass it along to Poe.

A special election for formation of the district cannot be called until after the survey, showing assessed and actual value of the property and bonds outstanding, is approved by the county board.

I Just Found Out About Orange County

By BOB SWANSON

Horseflesh

Take the word of a veteran cowboy who grew up in the saddle—
"People are tough on horses."

So says M. Marett, manager of the Irvine Park Riding academy, who has charge of renting out the academy's 20 horses. He sees as many different kinds of riders as there are people—considerate ones, thoughtless ones, cruel ones, gentle ones, the very young as well as the very old.

He claims the knack of spotting a man who'll mistreat a horse, always sends a guide with him—just in case. Surest indication, he says, is their asking if they can ride without a guide. That's his cue to send one along.

Horses are rented usually for one-hour periods. The rider, especially if he's never been there before, is warned not to run his horse. Some ride into the hills where no one's around and dig in their heels, sending the mount into a dead run. They don't get away with it, however, because when a horse is returned to the stable hot and sweating there's a double charge made.

Thoughtless riders can ruin a horse within an hour. Some, especially young people, take horses onto a hard road, take them for a mile or two. Or, even worse, they may run them downhill. In either case, it is injurious to a horse's shoulders.

Surprisingly, there are numerous elderly people who ride regularly, and they are usually the best riders. Many have ridden much in their earlier years, know how to handle a mount. Old people never mistreat a horse.

Riding horses through Irvine park has been banned because—like on the modern highway—there are reckless riders who might run someone down.

Marett—himself a cowboy from Utah—says the surest indication that a person is totally ignorant of riding is for him to run his horse. The "golden rule" of the cowboy is to never force a horse faster than a walk, unless there is an emergency or some special work to be done.

Walking your mount, cowboys have learned, preserves its strength so it is fresh when the time comes when speed may be necessary. Horses are trained to walk rapidly and easily—some are able to cover 30 miles in a day at that pace. The fast walk is steadier and easier than a trot or gallop.

The rider who wants to show off by running his horse is only the one extreme. The other extreme is the tender-hearted type who lets the horse do exactly as it pleases, both as to pace and direction of travel. This sometimes spoils a horse, making it hard to manage.

Horses are so trained that they usually know more than the average rider—about horseback riding, at least. Many persons are literally helpless when they find themselves boosted up on the back of a horse. Marett tells of one man who spent an hour in the corral, trying to figure out how to guide the animal. He didn't know what the reins were for.

Some city-bred novices apparently have the idea they can guide the horse by the saddle horn, just like the rudder of a small boat. There have been a few who have gotten indignant over the fact that "this horse doesn't know a thing." Actually, it might have been the best-trained animal in the stable.

Most riders, however, are regular customers who quickly lose their greenness. Marett says it doesn't take long to learn how to stay in the saddle. Spend three or four hours in the saddle at one time, and you'll get something of the knack of it—but walking may be a little difficult after that.

Busiest times at the academy are Sundays or holidays. The regular customers hold forth chiefly during the week. Marett says about 10 different groups come regularly to ride.

Best time for riding is late afternoon or early morning. In the morning, both rider and horse are fresh; being a cowboy, that's Marett's favorite time for riding.

Riders may have their choice of saddles—English style or western. Most prefer the western type saddle because there is a horn to hold onto. He doesn't mean to be prejudiced, but Marett frowns on the English type saddle somewhat. "They seem a little silly," he comments.

The western type saddle is no light piece of leather. The ones used for roping on the range weigh 40 to 50 pounds. Those used for ordinary riding are lighter than that, however.

Marett prefers thoroughbred horses to any other, because they can be broken—trained to ride—in two or three seasons. He's rented one out that had been ridden only once before. Non-thoroughbreds, though, he says, sometimes require as long as two months to break.

There have been few spills at the academy, no runaways. Just this week a girl was riding away,

Fishing Preserve, J. C. Trustee Bills to Be Given Legislature

SAN JUAN SITE PURCHASE TO BE PRESSED

NEWPORT-BALBOA.—Orange county legislators will present two new bills at Sacramento, one for formation of a fishing preserve three miles at sea along the county coast and the other allowing a change in the method of naming junior college trustees, it was announced at a meeting of the Coast Association here last night.

State Senator Harry Westover of Santa Ana and Assemblyman Clyde Watson of Orange both promised full support for both measures. Speakers pointed out that a coastline junior college may be formed if changes in the school law allow trustees to be elected from district rather than on a population basis.

Watson said that, since approval of a proposition controlling the state's sardine fishery, prospects seem bright for re-enactment of the Orange county preserve, which at one time forced purse-seine fishermen from approaching within three miles of the coast. The original law, after being approved in superior court, was found unconstitutional on a technicality in the district court of appeals.

A third piece of legislation of interest to Coast association members will be a bill which Congressman Harry Sheppard will introduce in Washington for appropriation of funds to take over the San Juan Hot Springs site, Secretary Harry Welch said. Sheppard, billed as speaker on last night's program, was unable to attend, but was to meet with boosters of the plan at noon today in San Juan Capistrano.

Completed plans for the most elaborate display of Christmas lighting ever attempted along the coast were announced by Chairman Elmer Hughes of Seal Beach. Division of cities into two classes for judging entries will aid in making the event more successful this year, Hughes explained.

The following committee members were named to stage the lighting and decoration program in their cities: Sunset Beach, L. A. Patch and Paul McCarron; Seal Beach, Hughes and E. L. Kupperle; Huntington Beach, Sol White and Bill Gallienne; Newport Beach, S. A. Meyer and Frank Crocker; Costa Mesa, C. W. TeWinkle and Harold Grauel; Laguna Beach, Owen Williams and H. H. Henshaw; Three Arch Bay, Dan O'Flaherty and Elmer Crawford; Dana Point, David Prenter and Dr. Roy Leutscher; San Juan Capistrano, Robert Callis and Tony Nydegger; Del Mar, D. W. Leyden; San Clemente, Dan Mulholland and Roy Divil; and Los Alamitos, Col. Hugh T. O'Connor and W. H. Crofoot.

Supervisor N. E. West, in discussing possibility of obtaining a fishing preserve for the county, urged study of the seal situation, pointing out that the animals destroy large quantities of fish each year, and that perhaps their control might aid in preserving the county's attraction as a sports center.

Plans for the association's annual Christmas party were announced by W. J. Bristol of Huntington Beach. He said the party will be held in that city Dec. 20. Dan Mulholland, perennial Santa Claus of the organization, will act in that capacity again this year, he said. Carl Hankey, president of the association, presided at the meeting.

CHANGE URGED IN VACATIONS

NEWPORT-BALBOA.—A move was started at a meeting of the Orange County Coast association here last night to change school vacation periods in Southern California. Plans also said to continue through June, giving students the opportunity to remain out of school during September.

S. H. Davidson, Newport Harbor High school principal, said today he will propose the change to the Orange County Principals' association in an effort to bring the program to the attention of educators throughout Southern California.

He pointed out that ideal vacation weather prevails throughout September, while during June vacation activities often are curtailed because of weather conditions. The local system of closing school in June is a heritage from the eastern section of the nation, he explained, and has been followed here through habit.

To discourage runaways, riders must walk their horses to the barn at the completion of the ride. Getting them in the habit of running when the barn comes in sight might result in runaways, or having the rider scraped off in a doorway.

FREE TICKETS FOR NEWSMEN

NEWPORT-BALBOA.—Judge C. P. Patten, veteran golfer and Huntington Beach jurist, endeavored himself to the press at last night's meeting of the Orange County Coast association.

When plans for the annual Christmas party of the organization were being discussed, and the news leaked out that tickets for the celebration were to all at $1 each, Judge Patten demanded that all newspaper men be admitted without charge.

The judge denied that he was hinting no newspaper man would be able to scrape up the price of admission. He said the association should repay newspapers for many columns of free publicity by furnishing meals for reporters.

Patten added that if the organization did not wish to pay the bill, the Huntington Beach chamber of commerce would do so, and if that body refused to foot the bill, that he would handle the expense personally.

His offer was accepted.

Fullerton Application for Flood Protection Work on Brea Creek Is Turned Down

"The people in Fullerton were foolish to build a city there, anyway."

This declaration by County Supervisor Steele Finley put the finishing touch yesterday to consideration of a Fullerton city resolution asking immediate flood protection work on Brea creek, which nearly every rainy season causes damage in the northern city.

The resolution, read to the board of supervisors, declared that Fullerton taxpayers have contributed large amounts of tax money to flood control work in other parts of the county, and have received few benefits. It asked that something be done about Brea creek.

The county board was about to defer action, and did so after Finley's comment. The Santa Ana supervisor said:

"The people in Fullerton were foolish to build a city there, anyway. They're right at the mouth of a canyon, and there are a lot of creeks there. The creeks were there first. Let them form their own protection district and vote bonds—I'm tired of seeing the south end of the county pay for the mistakes of the north end."

ESCAPE TO HOLLYWOOD

by KATHRYN CULVER

Linda Bailey's father has been considered Centerville's wealthiest citizen but, when he dies, she learns from the family lawyer that he has had heavy losses and has left her practically nothing. Wishing to hide this from the townsfolk, she decides to go away—to Hollywood to have a try at the movies. Over the protests of Fred Lancaster, who has expected to marry her, she sets out in her car. By the end of the third day, she has crossed the boundary of California. That night, at a tourist camp, she meets a girl named Marge who says she is on her way to Los Angeles to be a film star. Linda is forced to hitch-hike. Linda offers to give her a lift. An employee of the camp warns Linda of the danger of picking up a stranger, but she refuses to listen to him.

"Nonsense!" Linda took her arm and drew her toward the car. "We've a long ride ahead, and you won't be any help to your sick mother if you're half starved when you arrive."

The freckled boy had been replaced behind the counter by a fat man who paid no attention to them after he had served their orders. Linda was secretly glad the boy wasn't there. It would have been awkward if he had repeated his warning of the night before while Marge was with her.

After breakfast, she went back to her cabin to get her overnight bag, while Marge waited outside. She counted the money in her purse, and was appalled to discover how much she had spent already.

She hesitated, then slowly removed a five-dollar bill from the rest of her money. She didn't distrust the girl who was waiting outside, but a small voice whispered to her that she might as well take a small precaution against the possibility of being robbed. She folded the bill tightly and slipped it into her pocket.

CHAPTER V
The next morning, Linda found Marge waiting near the door of the little cafe. A

She grabbed Linda's purse and tossed it to the gunman. It down inside her shoe.

Then she went off to join Marge.

"GEE," Marge breathed enviously, when they were out on the open road, spinning along at fifty miles an hour. "It must be wonderful to have a car like this—and all the money you want!"

Linda smiled a trifle grimly. She didn't tell Marge the true state of her finances.

All she said was, "I'm glad to be able to give you a lift."

"It's hard for a girl on the road alone," Marge sighed.

GARDEN GROVE DISTRICT TO EXPAND AREA

GARDEN GROVE.—Annexation of adjacent ranching territory to the Orange County Water District No. 3 was overwhelmingly approved by voters of the district in a special election here yesterday.

Out of a total of 231 votes cast, 143 were in favor of bringing the additional territory—located on three sides of Garden Grove—into the district. The vote in Garden Grove was 199 yes and 85 no. The vote on the outside area was unanimous, 32 votes being cast in favor of the plan.

Water pipes will be extended from Garden Grove into the annexed territory upon application of water users there. The only previous supply of water for the area had been individual pumps.

Most of the annexed territory is ranching lands which, it is hoped, will be built up into residential districts in coming years.

The annexed territory consists of a section west of Garden Grove between Brookhurst and Gilbert and between Garden Grove boulevard and Stafford; a strip along the east side of Verano south of town, a section south of Garden Grove, boulevard on the east side of the district; a strip along both sides of North Euclid.

There were two polling places, for the election, one at the Garden Grove chamber of commerce, the other at the home of Mrs. Ethel Trickey.

A fragment of cotton cloth with dark brown stripes in it was found in a Pueblo dwelling in Arizona, dated by tree rings as having been occupied in 1168 A. D.

through the central and middle-western states.

ORANGE.—Mrs. Urma Davis, head of Orange's American Legion auxiliary, and two of her associates, Mrs. George Franzen and Mrs. C. H. Adams, return from a Twenty-Fist district meeting, held in Chino yesterday.

"I know it must be difficult," Linda said.

After a while, she turned into a crossroad filling station to buy gasoline. She noticed a gray coupe, with two men in it, drawn up on the edge of the highway, but she didn't see a handkerchief flutter in Marge's hand as they passed the pumped coupe.

Leaving the gas station, Linda drove on happily. It was less than three hundred miles to Los Angeles. A long day's drive, but she could easily make it by dark.

Tomorrow when she opened her eyes, it would be upon a new, strange world, Hollywood! The thought thrilled her more than she would let herself admit.

She forgot about the girl beside her, didn't notice Marge's increasing nervousness, didn't notice that she kept glancing behind them.

They were passing through a desolate stretch of desert when Linda saw, in the rear-view mirror, that a gray coupe was creeping up behind them.

Then, suddenly, as she slowed for a turn, Marge quickly turned the ignition key, and pulled it out of the lock.

Linda gasped, and put her foot on the brake, bringing the car to a stop.

"Give me that key!" she said furiously.

Marge's face was white. "Don't do anything foolish, and you won't get hurt. This is a holdup!"

The gray coupe was now drawing up alongside. One of the two men in it leaped out, a pistol in his hand.

"All right, sister!" he said to Linda. "Shell out! And make it snappy!"

Linda was too dazed to reply. Marge grabbed her purse from her lap and tossed it to the man. Linda sat there helplessly.

The second bandit had gone around behind the car. There was the sound of a wrench loosening a nut, then the gurgle of gasoline draining from the tank.

Woman's Club Hears Thomas Glenn

Eminently fitted by years of study and travel as a lecturer on Shakespearean, Thomas Glenn, English professor at Santa Ana Junior college, yesterday presented an entertaining discourse on that subject for the pleasure of the Woman's Club of Santa Ana.

The speaker has visited in England many times, and among other things, has witnessed nearly 40 performances of the Stratford Players at Stratford-on-Avon, according to Miss Blanche Seely, who introduced him in her capacity as program chairman.

His frequent stops in picturesque Stratford enabled him to bring a charming picture of the little village to his interested listeners, carrying them from the bard's birthplace to Ann Hathaway's cottage, then to the school which young Master William presumably attended (where he mastered the "little Latin and less Greek" attributed to him by Ben Jonson), the family home where there is such a fine collection of Shakespearean manuscripts, and books, the beautiful little church on the banks of the Avon where lies the poet-dramatist's tomb, and, finally, the placid river itself.

With each verbal stopping place Mr. Glenn presented some significant quotation that served to give a picture of the great writer, long so puzzling to literary authorities, to his audience.

"With regard to the long-touted theory held by some that Sir Francis Bacon was the author of Shakespeare's plays," he said, "I utterly disclaim it. Bacon's lack of wit, his ponderous style, and the well-known scientific approach obvious in all his signed works show him utterly unqualified to have written with the humor, the delicacy and grace, and the charming romance which the signed name, William Shakespeare, put forth. Moreover, another main factor in disclaiming the theory, in my belief, is the historical fact of Bacon's well-known abhorrence of his allegiance to Lord Essex at the time the latter came up for trial. No 'Shakespeare' could have thus violated friendship, for the Shakespearean plays are a demonstration of fidelity of friendship between two men is the keynote of the drama."

Going on to a description of the Shakespeare Memorial theater in Stratford, Glenn declared it the most beautiful playhouse in the world, for there the words and thoughts of Shakespeare bring him alive again. He informed his listeners that his first performance witnessed there was one done in the Stratford motion-picture house, after the burning of the original theater in 1913, and mentioned that the latter happening was regarded joyfully by most people, who felt the former theater inadequate.

After describing the theater's structure, Mr. Glenn presented an entertaining picture of a performance of "The Tempest" which he attended there this summer.

Preceding the introduction of the lecturer, the Santa Ana Junior college presented a pleasant musical interlude, with Miss Margaret Jayberg performing most delightfully on the violin, and Miss Verna Osborne's piano accompaniment, with Milton Asher, Onie Sanders, LeRoy Wells and Gilman Brookings presenting two well-known trumpet quartet numbers.

The meeting, launched by a routine business session presided over by Mrs. L. E. Tarbox, was followed by a delightful tea course with Mrs. Tarbox and Mrs. P. R. Arnold presiding over the table with its autumnal decorations.

There will be no meeting of the Woman's club Nov. 29, as would normally occur, but instead the group will convene the first Tuesday in December, which will be the sixth.

COMMENTS COME FOR CHILDREN

Gray hair at 30? A young woman of that age finds her brown tresses rapidly turning to silver. To her it is a tragedy. She remains away from people of her own age and is so lonely that this gray-hair complex is becoming an obsession.

I feel sure that these letters from other women who found themselves with gray hair early in life will be of real help to "Thirty."

Dear Miss Stoddard: This is my first letter to your column, but I feel I must tell "Thirty" of myself. As a girl I had heavy dark brown hair and large brown eyes and was considered very pretty. I married at 23 and at 25 my hair was quite gray—at 35 it was snow white and I left it that way. I didn't stay at home either, because of it. I attended parties and dances and social and had a grand time. My gray hair most certainly didn't make me look or feel older and it doesn't now.

There is never a day now that some man, woman or even a child will say "My, what lovely hair you have!"

I am now 61 and still have the same lustrous, so you see, you can just forget this worry and smile and fix your hair neat and becoming. Make yourself likeable and you will be liked. Sincerely, HAPPY.

ANOTHER FOSTER MOTHER

Dear Miss Stoddard: I enjoy reading your corner every evening—so much real heart interest comes your way.

May I say a few words to the wife who has been married ten years who wrote recently that she can never have a child of her own and wished readers who have adopted children to answer if they were glad or sorry?

More than 20 years ago we took a sweet little girl to be our very own. We loved her all through the years and no one could be dearer or closer to us than she is. Babyhood, first days at school, birthday parties, Christmas—a real baby to do for, high school, then a few more years, a bride and now a mother of two sweet little children—and are we proud of our grandchildren!

There were lots of days when things were not sunny, but love and work found a way and now we are sure proud of our family. As one grows older one notices more how lonely it is without a child or two you can love and who takes an interest in you. I have a friend who has never married, but who has raised a fine girl and boy who love her like a real mother.

FOSTER MOTHER.

May I take this opportunity to thank you, Foster Mother, and all of the other foster mothers who have written such nice letters in response to the doubtful woman's plea. I think it would be wise if she would write us again and let us know if she has decided to adopt a baby. How about it?

R. N. A. IN BUSINESS SESSION

Magnolia camp of R. N. A. met last evening with the initiation of Fred A. Shaw high lighting the session. Following this, installation of Mrs. Nina Drake in the office of manager was conducted by Mrs. Lenore Farmer.

District deputy Mrs. Bert Fletcher of Long Beach was in attendance last evening, and also urged that all members be present at the club's meeting. As the November 28 scheduled meeting of R. N. A. will be the last before the turn of the year it is to be in the form of "coming," especially planned for members who have not been in attendance for several times. Everyone is urged to be present for a 6:30 p. m. potluck.

Refreshments served by the November committee completed the evening. In charge of this phase of the meeting were Mrs. Agnes Buckwalder, chairman, and Mrs. Mamie McDonnell, Mrs. Laura Drake, Mr. Buckwalder and W. C. Drake.

EXCHANGE GARDEN IDEAS

Making it a most diverting meeting, members of the Better Garden club met with Miss Hazel Thrasher at 709 Oak street last evening for a "bring-your-problems" discussion.

Miss Lana Brokaw, program chairman, led the group, and the exchange of valuable ideas and suggestions made the meeting of interest.

Refreshments concluded the pleasant evening and it was announced that the next session will be in January with Mrs. Ethel Sinke.

More than two hundred DeMolays and their mothers attended the annual banquet sponsored by the local DeMolay association to pay tribute to all mothers of organization members last evening in the Masonic temple.

Long tables were beautifully arranged for the impressive and enjoyable affair, featuring vivid autumn leaves and glowing-toned perennials. At the conclusion of the banquet, over which Dick Horton, master counselor, presided, guests and members were ushered into the chapter room, also abloom with beautiful autumn flowers, principally golden chrysanthemums.

Here the solemn rose ceremony performed throughout the country to honor DeMolay mothers was put on by the San Pedro chapter, with red rosebuds symbolizing living mothers, and white ones those who have passed away.

Following this Mrs. Roy Horton, chairman of the local Mothers' circle, delivered an enjoyable talk on service, and Mrs. Maude Watson, mother of a DeMolay advisor, addressed the group on "A Monument to Youth." Mrs. William Dean followed with a brief talk on the San Pedro chapter's work.

A very enjoyable program was presented by a group of high school entertainers. Bob Davey, Roy Gowdy, Lila Brown and Lela Slaback presented saxophone quartet numbers, and Robert Ward gave a piano accordion solo.

Richard Brown was well received by a group of DeMolays, as were Zolba Escobar and Herbert Scott, singing numbers from "Vagabond King." Donna Marie Walling and Jeanne Thwaite rounded out the entertainment with two readings. Miss Ruth Hawley served as accompanist for the affair.

Hostesses at that time will be Mrs. Robert Guild in her home, Mrs. Kenneth Price, Mrs. Clarence Ranney, Mrs. Crawford Nalle, and Mrs. Q. L. Hardy.

Entertaining last evening were Mrs. George Walker, Mrs. Harold Dale, and Mrs. Claude Brakebill in the home of the former. Vivid harvest decorations were used, with a Thanksgiving scene centering a large table. Mrs. Paul Howe was welcomed as a new member, and Mrs. George Spielman as a guest.

Members present with the hostesses were the Mesdames Worth Babbitt, Robert A. Miller, Lynne Southwick, Alvin Stauffer, Edmund Guard, James Workman, Thoburn White, James Truitt, Albert Harvey, Francis Norton, Clarence Ranney, Stanley Norton, Kenneth Price, E. J. Vandermast, and Robert Guild.

Members present were the Mesdames Milton Poppett, J. B. Anderson, L. C. Davidson, James Merigold, R. J. Pearson, L. J. PAST HEADS OF D. U. B. HAVE MEETING

Past presidents of Daughters of Union Veterans enjoyed a social meeting this week at the home of Mrs. Mae Thomas, 802 South Garney street, with Miss Minnie Cowan as co-hostess.

They particularly were pleased with the striking maple leaves that surrounded the trays on which they were served an afternoon refreshment course, for they came from sugar maples brought from the old home of Miss Cowan in Ohio.

A special guest for the day was Mrs. Ella Smith, active president of the daughters. Members present were Miss Bertha Belt, and the Mesdames Carrie Smith, Beas Adams, Floss L. Bounty, Margaret Robertson, Eva Bell, Lena Bartlett, Beren Baker, Addie Gardner, Esther Gardner, Luane Leach of Orange, and Jessie Overton.

Ebell Book Sections Entertained

Welcoming Mrs. Oliver Halseil, Mrs. W. E. Dixon, Miss Janet Humphrey and Mrs. D. M. Terhune as new members, and Mrs. G. E. Lusk, Mrs. John Henderson, and Mrs. W. W. Finley as guests yesterday, Ebell's Book Review section met in the clubhouse lounge.

In the absence of Mrs. S. W. Stanley, Mrs. T. E. Stephenson presided over the meeting, introducing Mrs. Robert Northross as guest speaker. In her usual delightful style, Mrs. Northross presented an entertaining review of Vera Brittain's "The Three Strangers" and Margaret Halsey's "With Malice Toward Some," those two concurrent publications which almost parallel one another save that the former deals with the point of view of an Englishwoman in America, and the latter is just the opposite.

Mrs. Louis Vorhis will be hostess to the group next month, with Mrs. J. T. Wilson and Mrs. John Cloyes as co-hostesses. Yesterday's concluding tea was served by Mrs. W. W. Hoy, Mrs. W. E. Dixon, and Mrs. E. P. Jayne.

Other members present, in addition to the new ones, were Miss Preble Drake, Miss Mabel McFadden, and the Mesdames Earl Abbey, N. A. Beals, John Cloyes, Alice Hatch, W. W. Hoy, F. P. Jayne, F. C. FIRST JUNIOR GROUP

Junior Ebell's First Book Review section heard a sparkling play review by Mona Summers Smith, and then enjoyed an informal business meeting directed by Mrs. James Workman, section leader, making plans to hold a Christmas turkey raffle, and a closed meeting that will be a Christmas party next month.

Hostesses at that time will be Mrs. Robert Guild in her home, Mrs. Kenneth Price, Mrs. Clarence Ranney, Mrs. Crawford Nalle, and Mrs. Q. L. Hardy.

PADUA PLAY TO GIVE WAY TO YULE DRAMA

Modern Mexico, with bullfighting in pantomime and a real automobile sporting onto the tiny stage, is intriguing visitors in the final two weeks of the Mexican players' production of "Tito, el Toreador" at the Padua Hills theater.

Manuel Aguilar, the hero, gives the audience a thrill as he fights the bull with his espada, and Casilda Amador, the alcaide's daughter, chugs up to the footlights in a tiny automobile of foreign make to pay him honor, as entertaining highlights of the rollicking comedy-drama of the Mexico of today.

In striking contrast is the more serious production of the Mexico of yesterday now being made ready for a formal opening on Nov. 30. It is "Las Posadas," presenting in reverent and spectacular the quaint and appealing celebration of the Christmas festival below the border.

"Las Posadas," as an original production of the Mexican players staged annually during the holidays, always attracts a throng of visitors from near and far. Many patrons of the theater credit it as the outstanding Christmas play of the Southland.

SCHOOLS WILL JOIN IN YULE SEAL CAMPAIGN

Schools throughout Orange county will participate in the Christmas Seal educational campaign by special projects, it was announced today.

A teaching unit on "Christmas in the Home," prepared for the National Tuberculosis association by Ruth M. Strang, professor of education, Teachers college, Columbia university, and Grace Reeves, Horace Mann School of Teachers college, New York City, is being made available to the schools here by the Orange County Tuberculosis and Health association.

The unit carries out the theme of the 1938 Christmas Seal and presents glimpses of home living years ago, with brief pictures of life in the days of Koch of Germany, Laennec of France, Trudeau of America, and Holboell of Denmark, four heroes in the anti-tuberculosis movement. Many suggestions are given for pupils of various ages to carry out toward gaining an appreciation of home living of the past and present.

"It is important to interest students in the tuberculosis campaign," it was pointed out by Mrs. Edna Crawford, executive secretary of the local tuberculosis association. "They represent the group in which lies our greatest hope for control of the disease. By increasing our efforts in this group through more education, and through tuberculin testing and X-raying many breakdowns from tuberculosis occur in the years between 15 and 45, and the rate among young women from 15 to 25 is one and a half times that of young men of the same age."

The Orange county association will launch its Christmas Seal sale on Thanksgiving day. Twenty thousand letters containing more than four million seals will be mailed out. Funds derived from the sale of the Christmas Seals is used in the fight to control and eradicate tuberculosis in this section.

Those taken in were Isamu Masuda, Anna May Archer, Gerry Peck, Audrey Barnes, Lydia Elliott, Audrey Wilsey, Betty Neff, Don Mozley, Ben Steffens and Betty Frye.

President Carroll Richardson presided. Marjorie Vollmer, secretary; Mrs. Northcross, and Thomas H. Glenn, faculty advisor, were present.

Other members in attendance were Bruce Buell, Holman, Herschel Albrecht, Marjorie Buton and Mary Mulhall.

LAND VALUE SHRINKS 85%

Price on a small tract of land in the Santa Ana river needed for levee construction suddenly shrank 85 per cent yesterday, so the board of supervisors decided to buy it instead of having a court condemn the land.

Owner is E. B. Ibbotson, who at first wanted $1000 for the riverbed land. Supervisors declined to pay that much, and had ordered condemnation proceedings.

Yesterday the board learned that Ibbotson will sell for $150, and on advice of Deputy Dist. Atty. J. E. Walker decided to make the purchase. The resolution purchasing the land was approved by a 3 to 1 margin, with Supervisor John Mitchell casting the lone dissenting vote.

The monthly initiation of the Fraternal Order of Eagles will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at 204½ East Fourth street, it was announced by T. Maylon Jacobs, worthy president, Santa Ana Aerie No. 2312.

(This column deals with Townsend news and views. Any opinions which are expressed herein are not necessarily those of The Journal.)

All business men, professional men, teachers, doctors, lawyers, editors, employers and employees should see the Visual Demonstration lecture being given in the Huntington Beach Memorial hall at 7:30 tomorrow night. Mrs. Clara V. Ingledue of Cleveland, Ohio, will make the exhibition through the medium of her charts and other devices. Admission will be free.

Two questions press themselves home to the hearts and minds of all Americans these days. Those questions are: Why do we have bad times? How can we have better times? Both of these questions will be answered in tomorrow night's lecture by Mrs. Ingledue.

Mrs. Ingledue's lecture charts and devices have been copyrighted, and if you fail to see her lecture demonstrated you are making a mistake. The Huntington Beach and Oceanview clubs are sponsoring the lecture, and they extend a cordial invitation for those of other clubs to be in attendance. The location is Sixth and Magnolia streets, in Memorial hall.

Mrs. Mary Ritter, secretary pro tem of the Buena Park Club No. 1, announces a business meeting for her club at 7:30 tomorrow night in the Woman's clubhouse, at Eleventh and Grand. This club met with the Anaheim club last week.

Santa Ana Club No. 3 is holding a business meeting at 7:30 tomorrow evening in Townsend hall, at 509 West Fourth street, with Phillip S. Doolittle in the chair.

Ida A. Freeman, president of the Anaheim Club No. 1, writes that tomorrow night at 8:30 her club will serve a pot-luck birthday dinner, with the atmosphere of Thanksgiving surrounding the affair. Guests of honor will be those who are having birthdays during November. This club's affairs are held in the club building at 224 East Center street. Mrs. Freeman says the plans are being laid to serve a turkey dinner on the evening of Dec. 8. Watch this column for full particulars.

The California edition of the Townsend Weekly has been delayed, and the first issue will not come off the press until about Nov. 23. Latest instructions are to send all orders to Broadway Arcade building, 542 South Broadway, Los Angeles. Some legal and postal requirements not yet completed caused the delay in getting out the first issue.

Dr. Francis E. Townsend and his son, Robert Townsend, are expected to arrive from Chicago on Friday of this week. State Rep. Glen B. Wilson says in a recent announcement sent the Townsend clubs that upon the doctor's arrival or shortly after, the final arrangements for the issuing of the Western edition of the Townsend Weekly will be made. meager to meet the needs of such youth as were so equipped. This she pointed out had led to youthful crime tendencies and had resulted in filling our penal institutions to overflowing.

The Townsend plan, she illustrated, would change all this by providing the business impetus as would result in abundant employment for youth and those older. Democracy she described as being in danger but said the activities of youth in connection with the pressing for the enactment of the Townsend plan could save the nation.

After the meeting refreshments were served and then the orchestra struck up some lively dance numbers to which many willing feet stepped off the time. Among the group who joined in the fun was Costa Mesa's grand old man, John Manning, loved by all, who was 94 years old last October.

COOPER FILM AT W. C. NOW

Held over by popular demand, the new comedy-romance, "The Cowboy and the Lady," co-starring Gary Cooper and Merle Oberon, moves to the West Coast from the Broadway theater today for an extended engagement.

The second attraction is "Torchy Gets Her Man," co-starring Glenda Farrell and Barton MacLane.

H. R. TROTT
JEWELER
424 No. Sycamore

It's got looks—and so have you!

EYE OPENER! With all its extra value, this Buick sedan lists at $51 less than last year!

It makes the eye glad and grateful—you spot that the instant your gaze takes in this sparkling Buick for 1939.

It's sleek and swift and businesslike, lean and clean in every line, the trim bonnet low-set, the graceful upper-structure light-and-airy looking, neat and fine.

Will you step in, please, and look it over?

Why, it's almost like being in an open car, with the outlook you've got here!

The long nose tapers quickly out of eye-way, the pillars modestly retire to the background, overhead stop lights drop into easy vision—ahead, to right, to left, you can see!

The ruler will tell you there are as much as 413 added square inches of safety plate glass in this Buick, and these inches are placed where they count.

It has a lot to do with making Buick beautiful, this grand expanse of openness!

And like "catwalk-cooling": radiators low where air pressure is greatest—and the lines of the bonnet: broad, clean, aerodynamically better—Buick's stepped-up visibility both sets a pattern and fills a function.

So take a good look into its bigger, better, broader outlook. It's one thing among many that Buick's got that you'll want in your next automobile.

State Inspection
Of Meat 'Racket'
Betschart ClaimsTalbert Slaughter House Operator
Wants Return To County System

J. F. Betschart, operator of the Talbert Meat company, flung the gauntlet down again today at the feet of county supervisors. Betschart intends to slaughter cattle and hogs a week from today and may be arrested for slaughtering without a license.

The slaughterhouse proprietor wrote another letter to the county board yesterday, terming state meat inspection a "racket" and "persecution."

Betschart said state inspectors were forcing arbitrary regulations on small independent slaughterhouse proprietors, forcing them either out of business or making them buy meat from large packers. Inspectors, he said, had insisted on alterations to his plant which he was unable to make, although the alterations made no difference in sanitary conditions. He made a plea for return of meat inspection to county inspectors, and warned the board he would slaughter animals next Wednesday. If the board would like to send an inspector around, he said, he would pay for the inspection. Otherwise he will slaughter anyway.

ACTION DELAYED
Supervisors discussed informally the possibility of return of meat inspection to the county, and opined that if packing house proprietors would pay for the inspectors it might be done. No action was taken, however. Excerpts from Betschart's letter follow:

"Ever since the meat inspection of Orange county was placed in the hands of the state board of agriculture there has been a hardship worked on the independent butchers and small meat dealers. Regulations, rules and conditions have been imposed upon the independent slaughterers, with which it was impossible for them to comply and do business at a profit. . . . They were either put out of business or forced to buy their meat from the big packing houses. . . ."

OPERATES AT LOSS
"In my own case, improvements were required to be made to my plant which I could not afford to make, and which added nothing to the sanitary operation of the plant. As a result the state board withdrew my inspection and I was forced to either buy meat from the Los Angeles packers or hire my butchering done, which cut down my profits to such an extent that the past year I have been doing business at a big loss. No fault was found by the state board with sanitary conditions of my plant, which have always been conducted with the highest regard for sanitary conditions, but notwithstanding this, meat inspection was denied me, which has resulted in practically putting me out of business."

"I have been a resident and taxpayer in Orange county for at least 20 years and I feel that I am entitled to an opportunity to make an honest living for myself and family at my trade as a butcher as long as my business is conducted in a legal and sanitary manner, which is the only way in which it has ever been conducted."

'RACKET' CHARGED
"I am appealing to your board to take the meat inspection from the state board of agriculture and restore it to the county inspectors, where it formerly was, and thus save myself and other independent slaughterers from the control and persecutions of the state board, which seems to have been developed into a racket to force the independent butchers out of business and monopolize the entire meat business of the state in the hands of the big packers."

"I am going to slaughter and sell some of my own cattle and hogs, at my plant in Talbert on Nov. 23, 1938, at 8 o'clock a. m. and I hereby request your board to send me an inspector at that time, for whose services I am willing to and will pay."

"I am a law-abiding citizen and want to abide by all reasonable regulations but I don't propose to be put out of business unjustly by the state board of agriculture, so long as my plant is conducted in a clean and sanitary manner."

LAST AQUEDUCT BARRIER CONQUERED

Sketch showing where spectacular 13-mile San Jacinto tunnel—a link on the giant 392-mile-long Colorado River Aqueduct—is scheduled in a few days to be "holed through" by hard-rock miners of The Metropolitan Water District of Southern California. At lower left is shown an artist's map of entire aqueduct system, recognized as largest construction job being completed in America. Lower right is a sketch of one of the tunnel's headings. (Upper left) F. E. Weymouth, General Manager and Chief Engineer of Water District, and (Upper right) B. C. Leadbetter, General Superintendent on San Jacinto tunnel job. Aqueduct System is scheduled to be completed by July, 1939. It will deliver a billion gallons of water daily.

San Jacinto is the last of six mountain ranges that have been pierced by the builders of the world's largest aqueduct. To carry the Metropolitan Water District aqueduct through these granite mountain ranges, the District has driven 108 miles of hard-rock tunnels, 16 feet in diameter after being lined with concrete. All of these have been completed except the San Jacinto bore. Other sections of the 392-mile aqueduct system include concrete-lined canals, covered conduits, inverted siphons, giant pipe lines, pumping plants and reservoirs. With its intake on the Colorado River back of Parker Dam, the aqueduct will deliver a billion gallons of water a day to the Metropolitan Water District cities. Cities comprised the Water District are Anaheim, Beverly Hills, Burbank, Compton, Fullerton, Glendale, Long Beach, Los Angeles, Pasadena, San Marino, Santa Ana, Santa Monica and Torrance.

Seventy per cent of the water now pumped in Orange county, he said, is being drawn from below sea level. In Santa Ana where the elevation is approximately 125 feet, wells go down as far as 175 and 180 feet. This is proof of a declining supply, he told the council.

Because of the withdrawal of water from the underground basin for domestic and agricultural use, salt water from the ocean is beginning to flood the basin, he said. COUNTY CREDIT ASS'N FETES 5TH BIRTHDAY
Fifth anniversary of the Orange County Production Credit association of 662 North Main street is being celebrated this week.

The Cooperative Credit association was formed Nov. 20, 1933 when Orange county farmers and livestock men decided there was a need for such an association that would make short-term loans on a budget plan at a low rate of interest.

Operating credit extended to association members during the past five years has amounted to $2,516,000.

The farmer members since organization have succeeded in building up stock ownership in the amount of $25,960 and undistributed reserve of $25,832, officials said today.

R. D. Flaherty acted as temporary secretary-treasurer until April, 1934, when W. D. Miller was chosen permanent secretary-treasurer. He has been in that office since.

The present board of directors includes John W. Crill, Garden Grove; John J. Dwyer, Anaheim; Vernon C. Holl, Smeitzler; Walter J. Pollard, Tustin; and A. F. Schroeder, Orange.

The annual meeting this year will be held in January.

Water
Supply
Declines

Colonel S. H. Finley, secretary of the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California, urged today that the board of supervisors call an election to determine whether the entire county should become a member of the MWD.

Finley told the Santa Ana Public Affairs council in the Y. M. C. A. last night that he would like to see the supervisors call an election to form one big district including the agricultural areas and the city's not already members of the MWD.

MAJORITY VOTE NEEDED
"The way to go about it," he said, "would be to get out a good strong petition. It would take only a majority vote, and I am confident the whole county would want to go into the district."

Finley told the council that immediate action is needed. He said Orange county's present water supply is almost exhausted. Within a very few years, he said, the underground water supply in the Santa Ana basin will be completely gone.

Seventy per cent of the water now pumped in Orange county, he said, is being drawn from below sea level. In Santa Ana where the elevation is approximately 125 feet, wells go down as far as 175 and 180 feet. This is proof of a declining supply, he told the council.

Large Audience Is Highly Pleased by Cantando Club
Concert; J. J. Klein Directs

Who said 13 was unlucky? Not a bit dismayed by the fact that last night opened their thirteenth concert season, 57 members of the Cantando club convinced a large audience that this season is going to be a definite hit.

Ability of the club's new director, Joseph J. Klein, was apparent as the group sang its way spiritedly through a carefully chosen program in the high school auditorium.

Thorough, earnest rehearsal was apparent in the skillful rendition of this year's first concert by a men's choral group long before this was known for the fine quality of its performances.

Klein's leadership, already endorsed Monday night when the club insisted on singing after rehearsal, brought the well-trained group through a program ranging from spirituals to lusty works by Verdi and Handel.

Highlights on the group's program included Clarke's "The Blind Ploverman"; Kountz's "The Song of Man," with a capable baritone solo by Robert White; the comical "Schneider's Band," by Mundy, and especially the virile Bohemian "Reaper's Song," a thoroughly satisfying work with four-hand accompaniment by Ruth Armstrong and Dordley Paige Harper.

Last night's soloist, Lyric Soprano Zaruhi Elmassin, was applauded enthusiastically after two splendidly sung groups. She joined with the club in the finale, "Italian Street Song," from "Naughty Marietta," which polished off the program with a typically joyous note.

Board Gets Application for Job Created 18 months Ago That Has Never Been Filled

County supervisors got a job application yesterday afternoon, and for once were stumped about whom to refer to it.

More than 18 months ago the county board decided to set up a coordinating council, with a full-time director, designed to coordinate young people's activities in agriculture, to cut down juvenile delinquency.

But when it came to appointment of a director, the board flatly rejected Juvenile Court Judge H. G. Ames' recommendation of Dr. Edward Lee Russell, assistant county health officer, and the situation became a stalemate.

Yesterday the board got an application from H. B. Schultheis, associate director of the San Diego county coordinating council, who would like the local job. He enclosed numerous letters of recommendation from judges and county officials in that county.

Supervisors decided to refer the letter to someone—and after a prolonged discussion referred it to the county probation committee for action if the committee sees fit.

SEWAGE OUT OF RIVER JAN. 15,
BOARD IS TOLD

Sewage will be confined to sewer lines—and won't be running down the Santa Ana river—by next Jan. 15, City Engineer J. L. McBride of Santa Ana told the board of supervisors yesterday afternoon.

But the county board balked slightly at McBride's request to cut into river levees for the purpose of draining sewage out of the river bottom—where the result it won't all be drained.

McBride asked permission from the county board to shove a pipe under the levee to drain sewage into the sewer line. Supervisors and Flood Control Engineer M. N. Thompson said that the Garfield street intersection, where McBride proposed to put the drainage pipe, was still ownership of the Newbert Protection district, not yet dissolved.

So the board gave permission for the drainage, subject to permission from the Newbert district's directors—and with the statement that the county would not be responsible for possible damages to the levees.

McBride said it would take too long to get approval of the outfall sewer district's cities and sanitary districts, but indicated the job might be done if red-tape can be cut sufficiently.

Mentalist Plans Matinee Thursday

Clarke is said to be America's foremost mentalist, and the popularity of his personal appearance engagement here has never been equalled by any similar entertainment.

The mentalist answers questions on any subject.

MANY LOCAL FANS WILL WATCH J. C. TITLE GAME

Many Orange county football fans probably will be in the stands at Ontario Friday night when San Bernardino and Chaffey battle for the Eastern J. C. conference championship. With our Dons playing in San Mateo, many Santa Ana fans are planning to make the trip to Ontario.

The Chaffey - San Bernardino tussle is difficult to figure. Chaffey will have the advantage of playing on its home field. If the Panthers can check the sensational passing of Hal Finney, they should defeat San Bernardino.

Fullerton, an early title contender, dropped a 27-6 game to San Bernardino. The following week, with a much stronger lineup, Fullerton was beaten 18-0 by Chaffey. Of these performances the San Bernardino - Chaffey game looms as a toss-up.

Both rivals are unbeaten in five starts, and needless to say, the Ontario stadium will be filled to capacity.

HEFFRON PREPARES FOR NEW NIGHTBALL SEASON

All kinds of rumors were afloat at the end of summer that the National Nightball league would fold up before the start of the 1939 season.

The rumors were based on attendance figures, which were exceedingly low at some of the games.

New enthusiasm, however, was shown at the annual winter meeting this week. The entire set of officers was re-elected, including President Jimmie Heffron of Anaheim, and the league began plans to sponsor another eight-team schedule.

Many observers believe the league, to increase attendance, should abandon the 25-cent admission charge, reducing it to 10 or 15 cents per game next season.

This probably will be discussed at the annual spring meeting in February.

As long as the Santa Ana City league continues to offer double-headers free to the public, softball fans are not going to pay 25 cents to see only one game in the National Nightball league.

REACHING DEEP DOWN INTO SPORTS BARREL

The oldest uninterrupted football rivalry in the West will be renewed Saturday when Pomona and Occidental colleges meet for the 41st time at Eagle Rock.

Many Orange county alumni of the two Southern California conference colleges, are planning to attend the game, which will bring together two high-scoring backfield stars Jack Merritt of Pomona and Glenn Groves of Occidental.

Art Stranske, the former Santa Ana High school fullback, played a prominent part in the University of Hawaii's game with Denver, which defeated the Islanders, 20-12, on the Colorado field last week-end.

One of the scribes covering the game said "Strong winds blowing from the snow-whitened Colorado Rockies played disheartening tricks with the well-aimed kicks of Art Stranske and Joe Kaulukuku, prized Hawaii back, but both men kept the Denver team on edge with their long punts, passes and generalship."

Carroll Joy Added to Grid Party

DONS ENTRAIN FOR NORTH TOMORROW

Carroll Joy, who has alternated at left end and quarterback, will be among the Santa Ana Junior college football players who entrain tomorrow for their game at San Mateo Junior college Friday afternoon.

Through an oversight, Joy's name was omitted when players cast their ballots Monday and yesterday to pick a squad of 35 men for the northern trip. The names of Fred Kobayashi and Rumolo Narducci, reserve backs, were added to the party yesterday.

Some of the team members apparently thinking Joy already had been selected. There is a possibility 36 men will be taken north.

Joy was one of the leading backfield players in the Chaffey game last week, and previously had played a steady game at left end.

The Dons were to go through a final hard workout at the Municipal bowl this afternoon for their game with San Mateo, a team that upset San Bernardino, 12-7, two weeks ago, and will stand an excellent chance of defeating Santa Ana on the San Mateo field Friday afternoon.

Fullerton.—Although they were defeated by the two leading football teams in the Eastern conference, the Fullerton Jaycees will be on even terms with the Santa Ana Dons when the two teams clash in their annual traditional battle Thanksgiving day here. The Santa Ana have won only one conference game while losing two and tying two, and the Hornets have won three and lost two.

The Turkey Day game is a highlight of the conference season and is figured to draw a capacity crowd into the Fullerton stadium. Both teams are natural rivals, and the winner will have the Junior college gridiron championship of Orange county.

A feature of the game will be the presentation to the crowd of the Fullerton Junior college "Turkey Day Queen," who is to be elected by the student body. She will be introduced at halftime.

Advance sale of tickets will be held in Fullerton at Otto Evans' Candy shop on North Spadra beginning Monday. Admission will be 40 cents for adults and 25 cents for children.

Pitt Freshmen Worry Over Scholarships

PITTSBURGH. (AP)—Members of the University of Pittsburgh's freshmen football squad were assured today a misunderstanding regarding tuition fees would be thrashed out "satisfactorily."

The players reported for practice as usual after John Weber, the university's secretary-business manager, promised he would investigate and that he hoped to "find a suitable solution at a conference after the Thanksgiving recess."

Weber said a group of athletes, one a basketball player, and the others football men, came to him yesterday and told of receiving tuition bills for the first semester amounting to $150.

"They thought they possessed athletic scholarships which took care of their tuition. Under the new athletic code at Pitt there are no athletic scholarships," Weber said.

Some of the athletes, he continued, "talked about quitting school, but I advised returning to their classes and continuing at sports. . . I believe the entire matter will be thrashed out satisfactorily."

Spokesmen for the athletes said they had signed tries for the tuition but were under the impression the signing was a technicality and that the athletic department would not press for payment. The bills were sent to their homes last week, they added.

Sophomore athletes do not pay tuition because they received athletic scholarships before the present code became effective last February, Weber said.

Pros Battle For $182,500 Purse

CHICAGO. (AP)—George Jacobus of Ridgewood, N. J., headed the National Professional Golfers association as president today for the seventh consecutive year.

Committee reports yesterday disclosed professionals, by the end of 1938, will have played for $182,500 in purses, an increase of $19,150 over the 1937 total. The 1939 purses will aggregate $200,000 for 40 tournaments, four more than on last year's program. Secretary Walsh said membership during the year had stepped up to 1739.

He'll See Action Against Bears

FOOTBALL CAMPS

BERKELEY. (AP)—California's Golden Bears, still important Rose Bowl contenders, will be in their best shape since the first of the season when they meet Stanford here Saturday.

Coach Stubb Allison said the Bears didn't have a man on the casualty list, and that regular scrimmage would be resumed today.

PALO ALTO. (AP)—Coach Tiny Thornhill of Stanford predicted today that Stanford would field a team at full strength against California. Thornhill said Pete Fay, long ailing member of the Stanford team, would be ready for the game and would get plenty of assistance from others who have been spending most of the season on the injured list.

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—U. S. C. and U. C. L. A. gridsters got back into harness today after a two-day layoff, aiming to polish up their play for a "crucial" game on Thanksgiving.

S. C.'s chief interest this week, however, is the California-Stanford contest, with the Trojans rooting for Stanford to pull an upset and knock California out of the running for the Rose Bowl nomination.

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Loyola abolished the huddle in favor of open-air signal calling by quarterback Al Degetano today as the Lions prepped for another inter-sectional clash with Hardin-Simmons here Saturday. Center Gil Scott and Back Jack Lyons are limping with injured legs, and it is problematical whether they will be in condition to play by the end of the week.

SEATTLE. (AP)—The seven regulars who went the 60-minute distance against U. S. C. in last Saturday's upset were expected back in uniform today as the Washington Huskies tried to get steam up for their Oregon invasion Saturday. With Al Cruser and Chuck Newton injured, Don Jones and Chuck Bechtol rank first at full-back and quarterback.

EUGENE, Ore. (AP)—Washington's late-starting Huskies will find the Oregon football team weakened by loss of two regulars when they meet at Portland next Saturday.

Coach Tex Oliver said Roy Jensen, tackle, and Hank Ulsen, blocking half, were benched with leg injuries from the California game.

CORVILLIS, Ore. (AP)—Oregon State college football players got a send-off for their traditional big game against Oregon all mixed up yesterday in a celebration of their first victory over Stanford last Saturday.

Classes were dismissed and students gathered in pouring rain for the ceremonies. Oregon State will play Oregon in two weeks.

NEW COACH FOR IOWA?

IOWA CITY, Ia. (AP)—Who will be the new football coach at the University of Iowa—if there is a change?

It appeared today that Hawkeye football fans would have to wait at least 10 days for the answer to that question.

Few doubted that there would be a change resulting in the release of Coach Earl Tubbs, so attention centered on speculation about who might be named to the post.

After a five hour session of the board of control in charge of athletics yesterday Chairman Karl E. Leib told newspapermen:

"The board has thoroughly considered the athletic situation. It is not prepared to make any announcement at this time, but will do so within ten days."

Backing reports that a shake-up was likely in the coaching staff was a statement by Athletic Director E. G. Schroeder to the effect that something would have to

SAINT SOPHS END SEASON

Santa Ana High school's sophomore football team closes its season tomorrow afternoon when it travels to meet San Bernardino at a Citrus Belt league contest. Game time is 2:45.

Coaches Reece (Pinky) Greene and Clyde O. Patton announced the starting lineup as follows: Wallace Amling and Albert Huber, ends; "Bud" Deakins and Vergil Crenshaw, tackles; Carl Lara and Joseph Murphy, guards; Clarence Harvey, center; Joe Hayes, quarterback; Ray Shoe-maker and Lloyd Flaven, half-backs; and Alan Hadell, fullback.

CORBETT AND APOSTOLI MIX FRIDAY

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK. (AP)—The local boxing mob is in mourning over the Tony Galento-Harry Thomas affair in Philadelphia on Monday night, fearing the game in general will be dampened by the splash.

Specifically, the Mike Jacobs group is afraid the blasting given Tony's third-round knockout victory will keep many a customer away from Friday night's middle-weight scrap between Fred Apostoli and Young Corbett III at the Garden.

The fight fan is a scary bird at best, and wasn't too excited about Apostoli and Corbett, to begin with, so the locals naturally think it was a dirty trick for Galento and Thomas to flush the flock right at this time, with winter coming on.

"It was nothin' but greed," declared the manager of several big-name fighters. "Here we had what looked like a big season comin' up, and these mugs have to come along and ruin it. Galento coulda waited a few months until he had clear recovered from that pneumonia, and then fought a real fighter. Now he's ruined."

The consensus is that Tony's ruined, all right. They've yanked in the welcome mat on him in Philadelphia, and any chances he previously had of getting a big fight under Jacobs' auspices are gone. The colorful Tony will have to go back to his Orange saloon, even though he generally is considered an innocent party.

Most of those who witnessed the stirring event are inclined to place the blame on Thomas for not having given a better exhibition. Galento, all agree, went wading in like he thought it was a battle to the death, like his last previous one against pneumonia.

There will be, however, no more loud talking about the global Galento challenging Lou Louis or anyone else for the heavyweight title. There never was much sense in that, for the good natured Tony was not on his best, did more than a second-rate fighter with a striking capacity for beer.

Jacobs is justified in bemoaning the cruel blow to this week's scrap. As he pointed out with both hands, Apostoli and Corbett are the "two greatest middle-weights in the world, bar absolutely none."

Opotoli in little more than a year has stopped Marcel Thill of France, then the recognized world champion, and Freddie Steele, then United States champion.

Fortunately for Mike, there already is a sell-out of reserved seats for the Henry Armstrong-Celestino Garcia welterweight championship fight a week from Friday. At least, Mike says there is a sell-out.

By SID FEDER
(Pinch-Hitting for Brietz)

NEW YORK. (AP)—The next mackeral you fish up out of the barrel isn't any colder and deadlier than Tony Galento's No. 1 challenger hopes right now.

To this corner, the so-called Thomas fight was as convincing as an exhibition by a pair of experts as a couple of elephants in a shag contest. . . . None other than Jock Sutherland, who can spot the handwriting on the wall at 50 yards, won himself one dozen custom made shirts picking that Cornell-over-Dartmouth upset.

And the loser was your old pal Bill McClintock, president of that fabulous College of the North. . . . Isn't it about time baseball stopped kidding itself and made room for a couple of guys as smart as Frankie Frisch and Jimmy Wilson?

By way of Bob Johnson of the Spokane Daily Chronicle comes word of what looks like the top schoolboy pitching of the year. . . . The youngster is Ken Gibbens, who threw three complete for 68, 58 and 55 yards for Greenacres (Ash.) Central Valley High.

Amateur golf champ Willie Turnesa's new job is telling folks all about trucking parts—the kind you drive, not the one you do with your feet.

Hymie Caplin, who figures his Solly Krieger got a reward in the middleweight business, is thinking of putting pickets around the New York title go between Fred Apostoli and young Corbett Friday. . . . If you like to figure out reasons to pick the upsets, consider that South Carolina has won two and tied one in starts against Notre Dame coached teams this year. . . . And Saturday steps out against Fordham, piloted by ex-horseman Sleepy James Crowley.

Joe Smallwood, the ex-middleweight from Delaware and Lancaster, is bodyguarding for Boris (Frankenstein) Karloff in Hollywood. . . . He's in Karloff's latest movie, but you'd never know it—does the offstage bird imitation.

The Statisticians, having dug into the records, come up with the finding that Nebraska will have the worst season in 47 years, unless the Huskers get by their last two games. . . . In 1899, the Huskers won two, lost seven, tied one; to date, they've won one, dropped five and knotted with Indiana.

San Jose-Mexico Game Proposed

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—The University of New Mexico Athletic council was expected today to act upon a proposal that the university football team play the undefeated San Jose State eleven at San Jose, Calif., Christmas day. Ted Shipkey, coach of the Lobos, said his players favored the game.

'Y' QUINTETS BATTLE IN DOUBLE BILL

Tonight's games in the Y. M. C. A. basketball league will match Barr Lumber company with Elitist International Trucks and Karl's Shoes with Al's Lock and Key quintet. The first game starts at 7:15 and the second at 8:30.

Elitist will make an attempt to continue its climb in the league standings against Barr's five. Barr has won two and lost two, while Elitist has been victorious in one out of four games. Last week's 33-16 victory over Karl's Shoes advanced the Elitist quintet.

The nightclub game watching Karl's and Al's Lock and Key will probably result in another win for the latter, as Karl's has failed to score in four starts.

Three Bacas Will Head Fight Card

For the first time in the history of the Orange County Athletic club Promoter "Bud" Levin will stage a triple main event in boxing next Monday night.

The triple main go is being arranged to feature the three fighting Bacas—Fernie, Sal and Santos. Fernie will fight Roy Harrison of Los Angeles, at 138 pounds; Sal takes on Jimmy Smith, also of Los Angeles, at 119 pounds and Santos will fight Eddie Scrutchen, Los Angeles, at 142 pounds.

CITRUS BELT MAY GAIN FULLERTON

Proposed changes in the Southern California C. I. F. athletic setup, including the transfer of Fullerton from the Foothill league, were to be studied today in an important conference of prep school administrators at the Pacific Coast club in Long Beach.

Fullerton has petitioned for withdrawal from the Foothill league, and may be transferred to the Citrus Belt league, which is comprised of Santa Ana, Pomona, Chaffey, Riverside, San Bernardino and Redlands.

The committee on re-leaguage is understood to have approved Fullerton's admittance to the Citrus Belt league, although no definite action is expected to be taken until the spring meeting of the C. I. F.

If Fullerton is admitted to the Citrus Belt league for high school sports, the league will have five cities which also sponsor junior college teams in the Eastern conference. They are Santa Ana, Fullerton, San Bernardino, Riverside, Pomona and Chaffey.

South Pasadena also has petitioned for withdrawal from the Foothill league.

With the shake-up scheduled in the Foothill league, there is a possibility that the Coast, Bay and Foothill leagues will be divided into two seven-team circuits.

SAINTS PREPARE FOR SAN BERNARDINO HERE

Winding up their Citrus Belt league season, Santa Ana High school's Saints will battle San Bernardino's Cardinals at the Municipal bowl Friday afternoon. The Saints, who defeated Redlands in their last start, are determined to end their league season in victory.

Finest Array Of Horses At Santa Anita

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—The Los Angeles Turf club, which will give away nearly $1,000,000 in stakes and purses at the Santa Anita park meeting, reports the best array of horses ever to race in California is indicated by early arrivals and applications for stall space.

Already in the state are such turf stars as John Eastman's Flying Scot, Greentree Stable's Gang Plank, W. E. Boeing's Porter's Mite and Grim Reaper, A. C. Taylor's Indian Broom and Whichever, Le Mar stock farm's Mar Le, Nelson A. Howard's Gosum and many others.

Reservations from the East include those of A. G. Vanderbilt, Mrs. Emil Denemark, Anthony P. Leterjahn and T. P. and W. F. Morgan for 30 horses each, and C. S. Howard and A. C. Compton for 20 each.

HOUSE IN CELLOPHANE . . .
Strange as it seems, an entire two-story residence was completely wrapped in cellophane recently as a novel sales promotional plan. Six thousand square feet of the cellulose film were required to envelop the building. A 12-foot zipper was placed in front over the door and a huge ribbon circled the second story. Over 5800 persons visited the house on the first day it was exhibited.
In June, 1937, a brand new transcontinental air liner was similarly "christened" by breaking the seal on a cellophane film that completely wrapped the ship. This ceremony took place at the Burbank, Calif., airport.

Well known to San Francisco diners is John ("Coffee Dan") Davis, who for 24 years operated in the Bay City a restaurant famous for his dish of ham and eggs. Coffee Dan believes he has served more orders of that specialty than any other living person. In the 24 years from 1909 through 1933, when he retired, Coffee Dan dished up over 1,000,000 orders of ham and eggs.

What Next, Herr Hitler?

Each new move more startling than the last, Dictator Hitler has programmed an amazing series of events in recent months.

Hardly had Sudetenland been swallowed by the Nazis when propaganda-inspired Germans opened up on the Jews. The shooting of a minor Nazi diplomatic employee in Paris by a Polish Jew was a flimsy excuse for what followed in Germany, but any excuse is better than none.

The world now wonders what Hitler will do next. His ever-increasingly rapid moves and his unflinching success have made him the most amazing figure in the world today. Mussolini is a second-rate dictator right now, merely doing his best to mimic the master.

We may expect to see Hitler move eastward, down the Danube to oil fields and grain land. Turkey will probably come again under the domination of Berlin and Rome, along with much of the Balkan territory.

Hitler is demanding return of the pre-war colonies, and probably will get them, although the former allies seem now inclined to reject his claims. But Hitler has landed everything he went after to date, and London and Paris will probably back down again.

With Europe east of Germany under his control, with the colonies restored, with the Jews driven from Germany—what next?

Will it be German possession of parts of the Americas, along with attempts to establish Nazi influence in the United States?

History these days is mighty interesting—also, highly dangerous.

'Hully-Gully, How Many?'

When the federal wage-hour act became effective, one of the first to descend on Washington with a loud squawk was a spokesman for the pecan-shelling industry, who said he had no alternative but to fire several thousand pecan shellers until his industry was exempted from the law.

The other day another man from the pecan country visited Washington. He was Everett L. Looney, chairman of the Texas state industrial commission and he carried with him some interesting statistics.

The average pecan worker in San Antonio, he said, earns approximately 50¢ an hour, or $2.50 a week.

Yet, Mr. Looney said, the industry's "spokesman," aforementioned, has received for the last several years an annual salary of $12,000, and, over the last eight years, "drew down additional profits of over $500,000."

Mr. Looney said he thought that the pecan industry will find it possible to pay the 25¢-an-hour minimum which the law requires.

It does seem that the "spokesman" might share a little.

Alas, Poor Filipinos!

Well, we've certainly done a dirty trick to the Philippine islands!

It isn't in connection with independence, one way or other. It isn't in regard to any trade pacts or treaties.

It's elections.

The studious little lads from the islands have come over here and studied American elections, and now have adopted our tactics.

For instance, one Hilario Moncado, running for the assembly, has imported one of those 20th century monstrosities, a sound truck, and is running it around his district, bellowing out such fruits of civilization as "Flat Foot Flusie" between announcements for the candidate.

He's giving out bottles of pomade bearing the legend, "Vote for Moncado."

Soon, it is feared, Filipino candidates, spurred on by Moncado's example, will be importing hill billy bands to help win votes.

If that happens, it was a sorry day for our little brown brothers when we "lifted the Spanish yoke from their shoulders!"

Something To Be Proud Of

Last night's Cantando club concert, in case you'd like to ask anyone who was there, was a thoroughly satisfying experience.

Being partial to singing by capable men's choruses—and who isn't?—we all felt quite proud that Santa Ana has a musical organization which performs so very creditably.

The club itself and its accomplished new director both deserve wholehearted support—but it isn't the kind of support that is just a duty.

Hearing the Cantando club is a pleasure. Don't miss the next concert!

Amazing But True

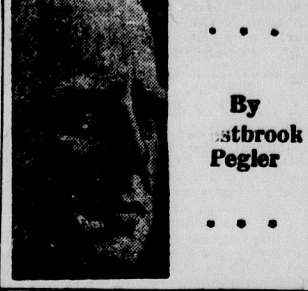

The Los Angeles judge who sentenced a school teacher to five days in jail because she wore that modern article of female attire—slacks—into court created public bewilderment and amazement.

If he intended to add to the dignity of the court, he failed.

If he wants to get some publicity for himself, he succeeded, but it's not very good publicity.

Well, sir, Sally Rand ought to bite 'em for photographing her in a suit of talcum powder.

NEW YORK—Ladies constitute a separate race, so different from men that it is impossible to understand what goes on with them. The best a man can do is guess. It is a good deal like talking with a Frenchman. For instance, they never pick up a check but, just by turning on the old charm, they can make you feel that it is an honor and a privilege to do all the buying. I don't know what it is that makes ladies and Frenchmen feel that it would be undignified of them to lift a little weight now and again, but they do feel so, and what is more, they put it over.

As an example, one night when I was a very young cub reporter I made the acquaintance of a lady while strolling in an amusement park "way out by the clay holes on the west side of Chicago, and in no time at all was tempting her pretty lips with beer and sandwiches. This went on to the extent of about $2, and as we left the beer place I had only $1 left. Then she saw a man selling Kewpie doll lamp shades and squealed that she would love to have one. She lisped.

HIS LAST BUCK

The man shoved it in her hands: "A buck," the man said, so I gave him the buck and had to walk home—about five miles. There is just no sense to such things, but there is something about ladies—and Frenchmen, too—which makes us try to create with them an impression of wealth and open-handedness.

They have secrets, too. They have a private opinion of men as a race, and they always analyze us and pitch to our weaknesses all the time to make us do as they want us to. You have to piece this knowledge together from experience and remarks that they let slip sometimes, like when they are sore over something. Boys can't understand it at all.

Ladies think most men are conceited and either need bolstering from their wives or bolster themselves all the time by telling their wives how wise and strong they are, in which case they are terrible bores.

EYE WAISTLINE

They look at a man's waistline, and if he is getting blabby around there they feel humiliated and think back to when he was lithe and young. But generally they mask their true meaning about this by saying that he was altogether too skinny when he was a bridegroom and that this new handsomeness and filling out is due to good feeding at their hands.

This is a velvet knock, but there would be a terrible time in the love bower if the husband should say, "Well, sugar, I was just noticing how you have widened out yourself from the good providing that you have enjoyed since I took you off your family's hands, and I think it is fine, because there wasn't much of you then. Just a slip of a girl then. Just a pretty little thing."

But the husbands don't say that. They grin about their increased heft and make jokes about how scrawny they were 20 years ago, but they try not to let on that they have noticed any difference in her. That would be worth a man's life.

Ladies think they just take over where the man's mother leaves off and continue the job of keeping him up on his manners, guiding him in his affairs and making his important decisions for him, while at the same time making him think he makes the decisions. Under this system they can take credit for all the smart decisions and claim that the mistakes were made when he wouldn't listen.

IT'S ALL DEFENSE

As will be seen, all this is defensive business. Ladies are just at the right time with some man when they are young and marrying, but in time they begin to have little nags back and forth as the man regains his mental balance. So they build up this quiet superiority and smiling condescension business, decide that there is no harm in letting them think that way if it makes them any happier. Usually, when a lady thinks she has been quietly shrewd and induced her husband to make some wise decision in his affairs the fact is that he intended to make that decision all along.

Men are not such dummies. They are the clever ones to let the ladies think they are dummies to keep things happy. But that is just it. Why does it make these strange people happy to think they are married to dummies?

BRIGHT MOMENTS

Lady Jersey, daughter of the great English peer, Lord Robert Peel, was attending a party with Disraeli, then in the later years of his life. "Now," said she, "please do tell me what made you abuse father in those far-off days." "In those days, my dear," said the old statesman, "you must remember your father was a very big dog, while I was just a little one, and if I hadn't barked very loud, no one would have listened to me."

TOO TRUE!

"Nothing to read around this place," stormed the man of the house who had settled down for an evening, "but some old next month's magazines!"

EVERYDAY MOVIES

The ordinance for licensing and regulating fumigators, as advocated by the citrus growers in their conference with the supervisors at the last meeting of the board, is being hammered into shape by Horticultural Commissioner Bishop and Deputy District Attorney Koepsel.

The Pacific Mausoleum company has let the contract for the work on its beautiful mausoleum in the Anaheim cemetery. The main corridor of the building will be 119 feet long, 12 feet wide and 18 feet high, to be lined entirely with marble.

The Taylor and Herman cannery of Anaheim, destroyed by fire recently, will be rebuilt, the owners promised today. Loss above the insurance was set at $200,000.

During the past ten years a quiet revolution has taken place in this country. It has little or nothing to do with the socio-political field—there has been a revolution there, too, if you like; but nobody could claim it was a quiet one.

Our quiet revolution nevertheless affects the lives of all of us and will continue to do so for a long time to come, for it is in the field of forestry. Ten years ago Congress enacted the McSweeney-McNary bill, which placed forestry research in this country on a solid, systematic basis. This month, foresters are celebrating the decennial of their Magna Charta, and a special issue of the Journal of Forestry is devoted to a discussion of scientific progress in all branches of forestry during that period.

There is a lot more to forestry than just going out and planting a lot of new trees where old ones have been cut down. Managing a forest is a more complex job than managing a factory—or even a whole chain of factories, for forest products cover a range all the way from lumber and turpentine to such intangible services as watershed protection and fun for fishermen. And forest research must take all these things into account.

Basic idea of the research program is stressed by Dr. Earle H. Clapp, associate chief of the U. S. Forest Service: "The Act and the various things that have grown out of it have helped drive home the concept that the forest of any area is a biological entity, all the elements of which are integrated with all the others and are influenced by them."

"The biological elements of the forest of an area or region extend in the same way into the social and economical field. All of this exceedingly complex interrelationship has emphasized the need for conducting research on the basis of these relationships, or in brief, the need for cooperation by groups of specialists in coordinated, well-rounded-out many-sided attacks in contrast with isolated and purely individual work." The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON.—During the week before elections and for several days thereafter, one of the Merry-Go-Rounders browsed through the states of Pennsylvania, Colorado, sounding out sentiment on Roosevelt, the republicans and the New Deal in general.

Most interesting revelation from this survey is that while a lot of folks in these states are sore as boils against the Roosevelt administration, most of them tend to exonerate the president himself. They blame everything on the brain trust or the cabinet or the politicians, but they still speak of Roosevelt as a man who is trying, who may make mistakes but by and large is doing his best for the country.

Nevertheless, there is also a pronounced underground murmur against Roosevelt personally. What is particularly significant about this is that it does not come from the usual die hards so numerous in Wall Street, who believe that nothing good can come out of Roosevelt.

It comes from such fair minded persons as school teachers, farmers, professional people, who approve of a lot of things Roosevelt has done but believe it is time for him to do some house cleaning and concentrate on efficient administration.

"GET A CABINET"

One thing that particularly antagonizes these independent thinkers is the cabinet, which they generally regard as a fossilized collection of bull weevils, so inept that Roosevelt himself has to run the show. This, they say, is obviously impossible when he is at Hyde Park all the time.

Roosevelt's fishing trips and frequent vacations are not resented. But his failure to have strong cabinet members around him is.

"Either he should give up fishing or get a cabinet," was the way one Colorado beet farmer put it. Another thing you hear a lot of growing about is insincerity—the tendency of men around the president, and the president himself, to talk high ideals and then stoop to petty politics.

WPA also comes in for a lot of panning, not because folks don't approve of relief but because local administrators have put so many of their non-needy friends on the payrolls.

SUSPICIOUS OF EUROPE

Finally, there is considerable suspicion that the president is too much to Neville Chamberlain and the British Tories. People are doing more thinking than ever before about foreign affairs and the danger of war and they fear that Roosevelt, although well-intentioned during the Munich episode, was given the complete double-cross by Europe.

They don't understand why he plays ball with Chamberlain in squeezing out the Spanish loyalists. According to present trends, Mr. Roosevelt will have to do some awfully steady pitching with much better support from his infield and outfield, if he is to hold his voters. Otherwise, goodbye New Deal.

Prickliest thorn in the side of the New Deal on power policy is giant Associated Gas and Electricity plus its roly-poly president, Howard C. Hopson, who successfully dodged a senate investigating committee for weeks, more recently has been investigated by the securities and exchange commission.

The Mailbag

Public opinion, or what somebody in office imagines to be public opinion, is our ruler. If public opinion is active, the politicians and people sit up and take notice. There is a definite need for outspoken talking and thinking on public matters. Honest, intelligent fair discussion of our problems is immensely useful. So that every citizen may have his say and contribute to the formation of public opinion, The Journal invites letters to The Mailbag. Please limit communications to 250 words. The editor reserves the right to shorten all letters in excess of that length.

WE WERE GLAD TO AID

To the Editor.—The successful completion of the 1938-1939 Community Chest campaign calls to mind the many things that together made our work successful this year.

On behalf of the same 400 prominent men and women of this city and, as a matter of fact, in behalf of the community as a whole, I take this opportunity of expressing to you and your paper our appreciation for the splendid cooperation we received during the entire campaign.

Your ever ready willingness to give us publicity when needed and advertising space was of course something money could not purchase and aided materially in successfully completing this major community enterprise this year.

We are not at all unmindful of the contribution made by the owners of your paper and your employees and wish to repeat our sincere appreciation for all of these things during the campaign.

H. L. Mencken Hits Hospitals

DURHAM, N. C.—(By Science Service.)—To Henry L. Mencken, hospitals are the nation's most "brutally anti-social" agencies because they are so "beautifully organized and efficiently managed" that they save and perpetuate the lives of habitual paupers, feeble-minded, defective, alcoholics, syphilis and their progeny.

Sterilization of the unfit, Mencken suggested, would solve the medical care problem which was discussed tonight at a Duke University symposium. The Baltimore critic, who is contributing editor of the Baltimore Sun, set the stage for addresses by the spokesmen for the two schools of medical economics: Dr. John P. Peters of Yale, and Dr. Morris Fishbein of the American Medical association.

Government aid for the medical care of the poor and health insurance for the middle classes is certain of adoption in the United States before long, Dr. Peters predicted. Dr. Peters is secretary of the Committee of 430, the group of physicians whose proposals for improved distribution of medical care aroused a storm of protest in conservative medical circles.

Dr. Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the A. M. A., is equally certain that the organized medical profession will win the fight to keep the care of the people's lives and health in their own hands and that, therefore, new convalescent disease will be made and life will be longer and healthier than ever before.

Mencken recently suggested "in a lunatic moment" that $1,000 be offered to every male "dole-bird" who would consent to be sterilized. But letters from his public suggested that $25 or even $2 would be enough.

"The health of the public is a concern of government," said Mencken. "No argument is needed to prove that. Equally obviously, we can't let poor people suffer without decent care. But where in the constitution, or in Holy Scriptures, or even in the works of Karl Marx will you find any mandate to plant deliberately a vast crop of them, and then manure it with the hard-earned money of honest folks?"

People still have more confidence in the doctor than in the politician or the statesman, Dr. Fishbein declared. "Perhaps the new social experimentation now being prompted in the field of medicine may temporarily inhibit progress by destroying individual initiative and the stimulus to new discovery. Certainly in many a foreign country there is evidence that medical science has ceased to advance and is in the slough of despond. I have said that warfare against disease is an unending battle. It would be a pity if the furor over leadership in this battle may make for a time the enemies of man victorious."

WHAT THEY THINK

What they think when little Oswald starts to school for the first time:

His mother: "Just think, my little darling is almost grown up."

His father: "I hope he makes a fullback."

His older sister: "That means I've got to walk to school with him."

His teacher: "I hope he's smarter than he looks."

His neighbors: "Now we can have peace for a few more days."

His dog: "Yow-w-i-l-l."

HELPING OUT

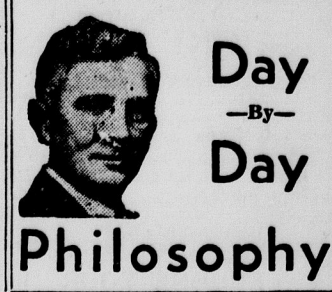

Little Tommy sat at the kitchen table waiting while an egg was boiling for his tea.

For a few seconds his eager gaze was fixed upon the running sands in the egg-timer. Then he reached out for it and shook it gently.

"Why are you doing that?" he was asked.

"I'm very hungry," he answered. "I want my egg quickly."—Montreal Star.

Philosophy

President Theodore Roosevelt was famous for his conversational ability. Few men who ever lived had a more diversified range of information. He could talk with authority on almost any subject from the John L. Sullivan-Jake Kilrain fight to the shape of the ears of Hannibal's elephants. A few days before he was to entertain James C. Blaine, in her right, would frequently spend hours reading about the subject on which his guest was an authority, so that he could converse with him more entertainingly. He was especially adept at handling children. If you would like to know how he did it, read "The White House Gang" by Sam Looker—a book every parent ought to read.

But in spite of all his genius for handling people, Theodore Roosevelt came a cropper now and then. The present Colonel Roosevelt gives a good illustration of this in his book, "All in the Family." One day about 1908, when Theodore was visiting Mrs. Roosevelt gave a house party at Sagamore Hill for her own children and their little friends. A little girl in a starched white dress was seated at the table immediately at the President's right. He was particularly eager to be polite and interesting to all the children, so he turned to this little girl who was awed and frightened at being so close to a President of the United States, and inquired: "Are you fond of the Nibelungen Lied?" The little girl didn't know any more about the Nibelungen Lied than she knew about the tariff policy of James C. Blaine. In her fright, she murmured, "Yes." "Father was delighted," writes the present Colonel Roosevelt. "He had established a common bond. His troubles were over. He launched at once on a discussion of the characters in that great epic. The girl became more terrified, and soon was hopelessly entangled in a series of contradictions, from which she was only rescued by our chorus, 'Father! Don't talk to Isabella about the Nibelungen Lied. She does not know it. She is just trying to be polite!'"

Rembrandt, the great Dutch painter, whose canvases now fetch a sum equal to a king's ransom, unlike many artists, was happily married. Thomas Craven, in his book, "Men of Art," explains why Rembrandt and his wife lived in such complete harmony. "Saskia was a dutiful spouse," writes Craven. "She did not meddle in his painting, never questioned him about his models, never tried to reform him or to make him acceptable to high society."

Most artists are regarded as being difficult to live with. Rarely is one found who is cooperative enough to give like for like. The true artist will sacrifice both himself and his companions to his art. But Saskia was one of those rare individuals who loved her husband enough to be willing to sacrifice herself for him. Perhaps to Saskia is due some credit for Rembrandt's brilliant achievements. (Copyright, 1938)

I'LL TELL YOU....

BY BOB BURNS

There's no question in my mind but what these modern conveniences are makin' us soft. If they keep on inventin' innovations, it's only a question of time until we'll lose the use of our muscles altogether.

Aunt Boo use 'ta do all the chores around the house and help take care of the farm and she never seemed to get tired, but pretty soon after she moved out here and got an apartment where they had all the modern conveniences, I called on her and found her sittin' in a chair, exhausted. I asked her what was the trouble and she said "I'm all tuckered from pushin' buttons!"
